Ansley resident pledges drainage fight

By DAN BARBER

Mrs. Azoline F. Thian said Tuesday that she was making good on her threat to bring suit against the Hancock Port and Harbor Commission for blocking the natural drainage of her property contiguous to Port Bienville Industrial Park.

Mrs. Thian said she had exhausted her efforts to get satisfaction from Port and Harbor Director Wilson Webre and Hancock County supervisors and was now turning the whole matter over to her attorney, Joel Blass of Gulfport.

Mrs. Thian claims that the Port and Harbor Commission blocked the natural drainage of her land when a railroad spur of the L&N Railroad cut across a natural bayou that had allowed excess water on her property to drain. The railroad spur runs parallel to the Thian property line and is on the industrial park property.

In addition, Mrs. Thian claims the problem was compounded when the Port and Harbor Commission ran drainage culverts directly to her property line from surrounding high areas causing the slightest amount of rainfall to flood her property.

"I don't care if I have to go to Washington, D.C. and spend every nickel I have to get some action on this," the Ansley resident said. "If I have too I will put a mortgage on this house, and I have my son promise me that he will continue the fight if I'm unable to myself."

Mrs. Thian, who says her grandfather settled the property and is buried on the land, said she would not be run off by the "likes of the Port and Harbor Commission."

Mrs. Thian said she rejected a solution proposed by the Port-Commission to dig a canal parallel to the spur and the Thian property line and into a deep water basin after the commission put a stipulation on the proposal that she maintain the canal herself once it was dug.

"They must think I'm crazy or something," she said Tuesday while leading an inspection on her rain flooded property.

Under water

This corner of the Thian property lies completely under water.

District court consolidates two county school board suits

The Hancock County School Board will not be required to file legal briefs in a federal suit challenging four seats on the board, according to board attorneys Joseph and Walter Gex.

In a move, which did not come as much of a surprise, U.S. District Judge Harold Cox consolidated a suit challenging the right of four incumbent board members to hold office with a separate suit challenging the December election of a fifth board member, Oris Ladner.

Both suits, consolidated by Cox in a hearing Wednesday, April 9, challenge the legality of Hancock County's countywide school board elections based on violations of the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

Attorney Walter Gex said that the board chose not to file any briefs in behalf of the present board members after the two suits were consolidated.

"We chose simply to let the case be decided by the ruling in the Oris Ladner case," Gex said.

Oris Ladner, plaintiff in the Ladner suit, charges in his suit that Ladner's election should be ruled invalid because a 1968 state law changing the beat system to a countywide system never received federal approval as required under the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

The second suit, which names the school board, the Hancock County Election Commission, and Circuit Court Clerk Henry Otis, charges the election of the other four incumbents should also be overturned under the same law. Board members affected by the second suit are Monvel Cuevas, Tommy Shaw, Johnny Banks, and Eric Larsen.

Judge Cox has allowed parties in the Ladner suit 30 days to submit briefs in the case.

Walter Gex attorney for the school board in the suit, admitted the violation of the 1965 Voting Rights Act in his answer to the suit. However, he argued that the board members should be allowed to continue to serve until the regular elections this summer because they had not known of the violation at the time of the election.

Gex had also pointed out in his answer that a return to a beat system of elections would be a violation of the one-man-one-vote statute because of the inequality created when the municipalities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland are left out of the system.

Salvage company returns to normal

By DAN BARBER

New leadership at International Demolition and Salvage Company this week said that the company was back to normalcy after recent top level personnel shuffles and a temporary work stoppage.

"New plant manager, Ernest Mitchell, who was promoted within the organization to head up operations after former company president A. J. Scardino was fired, said Wednesday rumors that the company was in trouble weren't true.

"Actually we're stronger now than we've ever been," Mitchell said. "We've had a tremendous amount of problems, but we have called back most of our skilled personnel."

International is still operating at approximately one-half of its prior work force, however, the company is presently meeting its payroll though, Mitchell says, and has equalized pay scales for all employees.

Principal owners of the Tennessee based company, Bruce Pursell and Robert Haley, were scheduled to visit the Hancock County facility at Port Bienville Industrial Park today to view progression operations to dismantle five WWII liberty ships.

Mitchell said the company was presently concentrating on completing dismantlement and scrap operations on the first of five vessels, the S.S. Benjamin Waterhouse, which will be sunk off the Mississippi Coast line to create two artificial fishing reefs.

The five ships were acquired under bid from the Mississippi Maritime Commission for $10,000 apiece.

Mitchell said that the company was in the final stages of completing purchase contracts with the Florida Maritime Commission for five more of the moth-balled cargo vessels.

Mitchell verified reports that the company intended to move office operations from its present location in the Coastal Millwork building to "something more convenient to our operations." The company, he said, would still pay for its contracted lease on the building for another six months.

In addition to trimming its payroll, Mitchell said that workers were presently working 10 hours shifts instead of eight.

"We're currently paying everybody," Mitchell said in reference to reports that the company had a number of unpaid bills before the shuffle.

The company is presently employing 22 burners and welders, he said.

Gas rates continue rise

Bay St. Louis residents can expect a second straight increase in their utility bills for gas service this month, according to Bay St. Louis Utility Commissioner Lucien Kidd.

Kidd said surcharge increases passed on to the city by its distributor, United Gas, amounting to 26 percent above last month's wholesale cost necessitated the rate adjustment to the residential and commercial user.

Average May residential billings will reflect roughly a 10 percent increase over April billings, Kidd said. In dollars and cents, he said, this amounts to about $1 to $1.15 over April gas bills.

Gas consumers absorbed an eight percent increase in April which reflected wholesale increases for January, February, and March from United.

Water impasse

Mrs. Victor Thian stands beside one point of flooding on her Ansley property. The entrance drive to her home is made impassable everytime it rains, according to Mrs. Thian who blames the Port and Commission for her drainage problems.

Save the Bay suit set for Friday

By David Pierson

Save the Bay, Inc. will enter Harrison County Chancery Court Friday to challenge the Mississippi Air and Water Pollution Control Commission (MAWPCC) permit governing DuPont's proposed titanium dioxide chemical plant north of the Bay of St. Louis.

The permit allows for DuPont to dispose of its poisonous wastes by means of deep well injection and to discharge 2.1 million gallons of neutral salts daily into the Bay.

Save the Bay, Inc., a group of landowners seeking to block DuPont's location north of the Bay, charges in its suit that the members of the MAWPCC were negligent in their duties and prejudged the permit in favor of DuPont.

Another court suit filed by DuPont has not yet had a hearing date set. That suit, filed in The U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, charges that the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) was negligent in its duty to review the MAWPCC permit.

DuPont purchased 2,200 acres near DeLisle, north of the Bay of St. Louis in February at a cost of more than $4 million with the bulk of that going to Lester Earnest, Inc., a group of New Orleans businessmen and lawyers.

When announcing the purchase of the land, DuPont spokesmen said the company would delay construction of the pigments plant until there was an upturn in the market for the product.

Irving S. Shapiro, chairman of the board for DuPont, said Monday that the company planned to go ahead with its capital investments program even though the company's first quarter earnings dropped considerably.

A titanium dioxide plant in New Johnsonville, Tenn. closed operations for two weeks in March and laid off indefinitely about 110 workers. About 60 of those workers are now reported to be back on the job. A company spokesman attributed the plant's closing to the large inventory of titanium dioxide among industrial customers.

Finally, the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers postponed a scheduled public hearing set for April 30 at the Hancock County Courthouse because of other commitments by the Corps' district engineer.

The Corps of Engineers permit is the last permit that DuPont needs.

Waveland establishes sewer service charge

The city of Waveland Wednesday adopted a monthly sewer service charge for single residences that will add $6.75 to residential utility billings when connections to the new $2 million sewage treatment plant are complete this year.

The single residential rate will be applied to each billing in the case of duplexes or multiple family dwellings. Each separate unit or apartment will be considered a separate connection and billed as such, the ordinance states.

The ordinance adopted by the board of aldermen stipulates that commercial and industrial rates as recommended by the consulting engineers for the city shall be established at such time as the sewer system is placed in service.

The ordinance further stipulates that no free service shall be afforded by the city for sewer service and bills shall be rendered monthly.

Mayor John Longo told the board that adoption of the ordinance establishing residential rates was necessary before sale of $755,000 in revenue bonds could be completed with the department of Housing and Urban Renewal.

The city of Waveland will issue $755,000 in revenue bonds and another $200,000 in general obligation bonds to be purchased by HUD for completion of the sewage treatment plant.

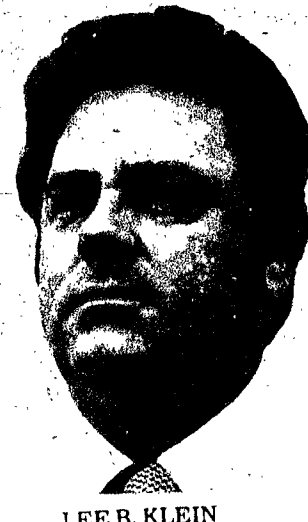

Waveland city clerk Barbara Rapold said that the bonds, which will be taken to the federal reserve bank in Atlanta next week, will be bought by HUD at 5 1/2 percent.

Saucier enters Beat Three race

Clifton Saucier, 44, has announced he will be a candidate for Hancock County Beat Three Supervisor in the August Democratic primary.

Saucier, a grounds maintenance foreman for Diamondhead, is a native of Hancock County and resides in Standard Community with his wife, Janice, and their five children.

He is a former trustee of Hancock General Hospital and served previously as Constable from Beat Two.

LEE B. KLEIN

Klein announces for reelection

Lee B. Klein, resident of Clermont Harbor and owner of K & M Dental Lab., has announced for reelection for Justice of the Peace from Beat One.

A native of Hancock County, Klein is a graduate of Bay High School and Pearl River Jr. College. He has eight years experience as a Deputy Sheriff. He and his wife, Dorothy, have four children.

Heading our way

DAV vans conducting a nationwide tour this year will reach Mississippi communities April 21-May 16. A van is scheduled to arrive at Our Shopping Center in Waveland April 30 to aid local veterans in obtaining benefits and free services.

DAV vans schedule visit

Waveland will be among 20 Mississippi communities visited by the Disabled American Veterans fleet of mobile Field Service Units. One of the vans is scheduled to visit Our Shopping Center in Waveland April 30 to advise local veterans of free services provided by the DAV.

Eighteen of the DAV service vans recently began a year long tour of the United States and are scheduled to visit Mississippi April 21 - May 16.

The purpose of the tour is to carry the many free services provided by the DAV to wartime disabled veterans and their dependents who live some distance away from Veterans Administration Regional Headquarters throughout the country. Qualified DAV National Service Officers, most of whom are Vietnam era disabled veterans, will be on board the Field Service Units to assist wartime disabled veterans and their families in their claims for Federal and State benefits to which they are entitled by law.

The DAV employs more than 280 full-time National Service Officers with offices at Veterans Administration Regional Headquarters throughout the country.

However, DAV officials point out that the location of these VA Regional Offices often makes it extremely difficult for many disabled veterans, as well as their widows and dependents, to make personal contact with a DAV National Service Officer. "We know that many of these people need assistance in matters relating to disability compensation, insurance, education, hospitalization, employment and other benefits provided by the U. S. Government," said DAV National Commander Walter T. Greaney. "And our new Field Service Units will take the program right to their doorsteps."

DAV officials said that disabled veterans of all wars, as well as their dependents, are urged to visit the DAV

Field Service Units to discuss any problems they may have. Particular emphasis is being placed on disabled veterans of the Vietnam conflict, because such a large number are not taking advantage of all of the benefits which they have coming to them, especially in the areas of education and vocational rehabilitation.

Last year, the tours' first year, DAV National Service Officers visited 48 states. They were contacted by more than 47,000 veterans and their families seeking assistance. They expect to see even more this year.

Cooperating with the national organization of the Disabled American Veterans in bringing the Field Service Units to Mississippi are the Department of Mississippi DAV and DAV Chapters throughout the state.

The Field Service Units will be open for business from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., unless otherwise noted.

Long Beach aldermen continue bickering

LONG BEACH--The Long Beach aldermen continued to bicker among themselves Tuesday night as board member Jimmy Moran moved to seek the state attorney general's opinion on whether payments made to Jimmy Savarese were legal. Savarese countered with an amendment to Moran's motion which will inform the attorney general that the city council had approved the expenditures to Savarese.

The matter came on the heels of another feud among the aldermen at last week's meeting where Sal Giuffria was replaced as street commissioner by Mike Rutledge.

Mayor Sam Maxwell said after the meeting that the board traditionally allowed the Water and Sewer commissioner $200 truck and travel expenses each month to match the salary of the street commissioner who has similar time-consuming duties.

In another matter, Jimmy Savarese was appointed as the city's plumbing inspector, and fireman John Strickland was promoted to the rank of lieutenant.

The board also re-appointed Henry Lyon to a four year term on the city's housing committee.

The city councilmen accepted a contract from Honnicut and Associates for updating the land rolls and tax receipts, and the board took under study six bids on a new fire hose and a breathing apparatus for the firemen.

Finch visits

Bay residents

Gubernatorial candidate Charles C. Cliff Finch will be in Bay St. Louis at the Wheel Inn Restaurant on Highway 90 from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, April 19, to speak informally with local residents.

Kidd appeals to Congress on fund denial

Bay St. Louis Public Utilities Commissioner Lucien Kidd has appealed to Mississippi Congressman Trent Lott and Senator James Eastland for an explanation of a denial of an application for community development funds under the Community Development Act of 1974.

The city had applied along with other cities on the coast including Pass Christian, Waveland, and Long Beach for a portion of an allotment of $9.5 million in Housing and Urban Development funds to Mississippi cities.

All of the applications, including Bay St. Louis' application for $250,000, were denied because all four cities, Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Long Beach and Pass Christian are classified as one Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA) and were not eligible for the funds.

Kidd complained in his letter to Congressman Lott that city officials had not been advised of the lack of funds for cities in the SMSA category at any of three meetings in Atlanta and Jackson and that the cities had, in fact, lost money in travel expense and administrative costs in making the applications.

"As you well know this area is still suffering from the effects of the Camille disaster and at present we are doing everything in our power, with our limited finances, to improve our community," Kidd said in his letter to Lott.

"This is the second time in my short term in office that I have run into programs and proposals made by our congressional delegations, namely, the Air and Water Control Commission Act of 1972, and this Community Development Assistance Act which no funds were appropriated to the cities in our category."

Both Lott and Eastland replied to Kidd's letter with promises to check with HUD officials about the denial of the applications. Lott promised to bring the matter to the attention of Assistant Secretary of HUD David O. Meeker and possibly arrange for a local delegation to meet with him about the funds.

"I don't think that the letters will do any good," said Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver. "They appropriated the money, but now the money is gone. There is nothing the Congressman or the Senator can do about it."

Kidd said that the denial of the funds would hinder the development of certain areas of the city which the council had hoped to correct with the community development funds.

"The city can now only complete drainage work that has been started in Spanish Acres and in the Main St. drainage field, Kidd said, but could not begin work in four other problem areas.

"This will really slow development of our annexed areas," said Kidd, "because people simply can't get Veterans or Farmers Home Association Loans to build in these areas because of the drainage situation."

Kidd said the only other funds available for drainage projects were revenue sharing funds which were insufficient for the project.

Supervisors suit delayed in court

By ANITA DINWIDDIE

A suit challenging the countywide election system for Hancock County Board of Supervisors will probably be argued in open court sometime this week said Joel Blass, attorney for plaintiff Harlan Dean, Wednesday.

Attorneys had said last week that they hoped the suit which was originally scheduled for a hearing April 10 could be decided on the basis of legal briefs rather than testimony in open court. U. S. District Judge Harold Cox has said, however, that the case should be presented in open court.

"Judge Cox said that he would try to squeeze us in this week," said Blass. "We had talked about just submitting it on briefs, but apparently he prefers to have it argued in open court."

Sam Favre, attorney for the Board of Supervisors, said that this is the last week for Judge Cox to hear cases in Biloxi, and that the case may be heard in Jackson if it is not on the schedule Friday.

The suit, filed last January by Pearllington resident Harlan Dean requests a change from the present countywide system of elections back to election by beats. It charges that the county should have returned to a beat system of elections in March of 1970 when a federal district court in Biloxi ordered beat lines redrawn to comply with the one-man-one-vote mandate.

The answer filed by the Board of supervisors claims, however, that the countywide system can remain because when the beat lines were redrawn in 1970, the district court allowed the 1967 law creating the countywide elections to stand.

Beat one Supervisor Jerry Ladner said that he would file an appeal if the present countywide system is knocked down. The plaintiff, Harlan Dean, a former Beat one Supervisor, has expressed an interest in running against Ladner if the county returns to beat elections.

Burglars escape with whiskey

Bay St. Louis police answered a burglary call at Marquez Lounge, 106 South Beach Blvd. Monday, April 14. Police Chief Billy Carbonette said the burglars had entered the rear of the building sometime early Monday morning and escaped with five of six fifths of whiskey and approximately $100 worth of cigarettes.

No suspects have been arrested as yet in connection with the theft, Carbonette said.

Ole Miss, Memphis State study manpower program

UNIVERSITY, Miss. - A conference on evaluation and monitoring of manpower programs will be held April 21 and 22 in Memphis.

Entitled "Program Evaluation Under CETA Uses and Problems," the conference will primarily address itself to the evaluation and monitoring problems of prime sponsors under the new Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) of 1974.

Special sessions will be held with regard to the impact of CETA on the South and on a program underway by the National Academy of Science to evaluate the national impact of CETA," said Dr. Brian S. Rungeling, co-director of the Center and associate professor of Economics at Ole

Miss. Subjects to be discussed during the two-day conference are purposes of program evaluations, limitations of program measurement and evaluation using the results of evaluation, benefit-cost analysis, relative effectiveness and other alternative evaluation methods. Dr. Ray Marshall, director of the Center for the Study of Human Resources at the University of Texas, will speak at a luncheon April 21 on "What CETA Means to the South." Luncheon speaker April 22 will be Dr. Sar A. Levitan, director of the Center for Manpower Policy Studies at George Washington University, who will address the conference on "Limitations of Measurement and Evaluation as Applied to Programs." A limited number of spaces remain available for those wishing to attend.

FDA committee recommends recall of aerosol deodorants

A Food and Drug Administration (FDA) advisory committee has unanimously voted to recommend that the Commissioner of Food and Drugs order withdrawal of all aerosol antiperspirants containing zirconium from interstate commerce, according to Joe Brown, chief of the Bureau of Environmental Health of the State Board of Health.

"The committee is now preparing a formal report citing the available scientific data upon which the experts based their opinion and subsequent recommendation to the commissioner," Brown said. "This report is expected to be completed in a matter of weeks."

According to Brown, zirconium complexes are used in some cream type, roll-on and aerosolized antiperspirants to inhibit perspiration. The FDA will not decide whether regulatory action is necessary until the report of the committee is received and evaluated.

"The advisory committee has been looking into the possibility of permanent lung damage from long term inhalation of zirconium used in aerosol antiperspirants," Brown said.

"Panel members took evidence from a number of scientists, surveyed available literature on the subject and explored the kinds of studies needed to demonstrate adequately the safety of zirconium-containing aerosol antiperspirants."

"The recommendation for withdrawal of the aerosolized products was based on the panel's concern with the apparent intention of industry to increase the use of zirconium in antiperspirants," Brown said.

The panel's zirconium report will be presented in advance of its overall report on the safety and effectiveness of the antiperspirants as a general category of non-prescription drugs. The categorical report, a part of the massive FDA review of all non-prescription products, is expected in 1976.

Underarm biggies

A number of popular brands of aerosol deodorants may be challenged by a recent recommendation by the Food and Drug

Advisory Committee to ban a common ingredient, zirconium, which is found in many of the products.

Chamber accepts manager's resignation

The executive committee of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Tuesday accepted the resignation of manager Sylvia McComiskey exactly one week after Mrs. McComiskey made an emotional resignation statement before board members.

Mrs. McComiskey had attempted to resign at a meeting of the board of directors April 8, but the matter was tabled because of a reluctance on the part of a majority of the directors to accept her resignation.

The resignation was triggered by an attempt on the part of some board members to hire an executive director which was seen by Mrs. McComiskey as an attempt to supplant her authority in the chamber.

A majority of the chamber denied that there had been a legitimate attempt to hire an executive director and asked Mrs. McComiskey to reconsider her decision to resign. Chamber president, Perry Gibson, said that he did not know of any official board action calling for the creation of a position of executive director, and further stated that if such a position was created that Mrs. McComiskey could, in his opinion, best fill the position.

"It is with deep regret that we accept the resignation of Mrs. Sylvia McComiskey as the manager of the Chamber of Commerce," Gibson said Tuesday. "The fact that her past services are appreciated have been amply shown this past week. She will leave her employment with a commendation of 'well done' for her services."

Mrs. McComiskey, who will leave her position as manager April 30, also issued a statement of praise for Gibson and the work done by the Chamber of Commerce. She also promised her continued support of committee work in the Chamber's Area Promotion program after her resignation.

"I fully expected the executive committee to accept my resignation today," she said. "I think they realized that I was really sincere in wanting to resign and that it would be best for me and for the chamber."

Mrs. McComiskey had served as secretary-manager to the Chamber for two and a half years.

She announced that the chamber is now taking applications at the chamber office on Highway 90 for a new secretary-manager to fill the vacancy.

Cattlemen plan Beef Producers Day

POPLARVILLE, Miss. -- A

Beef Producers Field Day will be held at the South Mississippi Branch Station of the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station (MAFES) at 8:50 a.m. today. W. W. Kilby, superintendent of the station, has extended an invitation to anyone involved or interested in beef production to attend the meeting.

Professional leaders and researchers will speak on the latest practices in beef production. Dr. Roy Burris, animal scientist and Mr. Edmond Brown, agronomist, will give reports on the research findings for the past year at the experiment station.

Dr. J. C. Collins will discuss "Management of Beef Cattle Herds" and J. W. (Bill) McKie, area extension agronomist for south Mississippi will talk on "Problems in Management of Pasture and Forages". Jerry Lyon, current president of the Mississippi Cattlemen's Association has been invited to speak on a subject of his choice.

"Since there is such a keen interest in finishing cattle to slaughter grade in south Mississippi, we have invited Mr. W. M. Brown of Atmore, Alabama to give a talk. Mr. Brown is a past president of the Alabama Cattlemen's Association and has a very successful feedlot operation in Alabama," said Kilby.

"In the afternoon we will load up on buses and tour our experimental units at White Sands and McNeil. We want to show our experimental feedlot and irrigation systems," said Kilby.

The morning's meeting will be held in the auditorium (Moody Hall) of Pearl River Junior College. The auditorium is directly across the street from the headquarters of the MAFES Branch Station.

The Beef Producers Field Day is being jointly sponsored by MAFES, Mississippi Cooperative Extension and the pearl River County Cattlemen's Association.

A second Beef Producers Day will be held at the Brown Loan Branch of the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station (MAFES) at Raymond Saturday, April 19.

Having served Hancock County the past twenty-four years as Coroner, I now humbly ask that you good people promote me to the office of Sheriff. I believe that I have the background necessary to establish, operate and administrate the affairs of the Sheriff's Department, in the business-like manner intended. I am a veteran of World War II, having served in the US Air Force four and a half years. I was shot down over Holland, where I was captured by the Germans and held as a P.O.W. for nine months.

I am a life long citizen of Hancock County, having graduated from St. Stanislaus College. I then attended Southwestern University at Lafayette, Louisiana, for one and a half years. I hold a degree in Mortuary Science from Gupton Jones College. I hold certificates in the Basic Law Enforcement courses of the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy, Homicide Investigation and Advanced Homicide Investigation, from the University of Mississippi, Drug Identification from the University of Southern Mississippi, and various courses in Criminal Justice subjects from Mississippi Southern at Gulf Park. Lastly, drug: Identification, Addiction and Investigation, from the U.S. Bureau of Dangerous Drugs & Narcotics.

I hold memberships in the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the International Academy of Criminology, and the National Police & Fire Fighters' Association.

I am fully aware of the extreme importance that a Sheriff's Department has upon a community. Visitors, new citizens and surely, business and industry are impressed by the quality of law enforcement in an area, and are more apt to settle and locate, where the per capita crime ratio is low, and "safety for citizens is the rule and not the exception". To this end, I dedicate myself.

Being a widower, I feel that I can devote the necessary time, 24 hours a day if necessary, to fulfill the requirements of a situation created by need or a tactical

EMILE G. PIAZZA

(Hancock County Coroner 24 Years)

ANNOUNCES FOR SHERIFF HANCOCK COUNTY

Having served Hancock County the past twenty-four years as Coroner, I now humbly ask that you good people promote me to the office of Sheriff. I believe that I have the background necessary to establish, operate and administrate the affairs of the Sheriff's Department, in the business-like manner intended. I am a veteran of World War II, having served in the US Air Force four and a half years. I was shot down over Holland, where I was captured by the Germans and held as a P.O.W. for nine months.

I am a life long citizen of Hancock County, having graduated from St. Stanislaus College. I then attended Southwestern University at Lafayette, Louisiana, for one and a half years. I hold a degree in Mortuary Science from Gupton Jones College. I hold certificates in the Basic Law Enforcement courses of the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy, Homicide Investigation and Advanced Homicide Investigation, from the University of Mississippi, Drug Identification from the University of Southern Mississippi, and various courses in Criminal Justice subjects from Mississippi Southern at Gulf Park. Lastly, drug: Identification, Addiction and Investigation, from the U.S. Bureau of Dangerous Drugs & Narcotics.

I hold memberships in the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the International Academy of Criminology, and the National Police & Fire Fighters' Association.

I am fully aware of the extreme importance that a Sheriff's Department has upon a community. Visitors, new citizens and surely, business and industry are impressed by the quality of law enforcement in an area, and are more apt to settle and locate, where the per capita crime ratio is low, and "safety for citizens is the rule and not the exception". Recently, the week of April 1st, Mississippi Educational television broadcast a preview of a mental health program entitled THE THIN EDGE, a series of mental health broadcasts. The first was aired April 5 by Channel 19 at 7:30 p.m.

Channel 19 had three well-known men at their previous session. One was Dr. William Jaquitt, M.D., head of the Whitfield State Institution for the Mentally Ill. Dr. Jaquitt has just been appointed head of the Mississippi State Board of Mental Health-Mental Retardation. We think this appointment shows encouraging progress for Mississippi. Dr. Jaquitt is well qualified for this position, and this appointment will make him a national figure in mental health-mental retardation.

On ETV's preview of The Thin Edge, Dr. Jaquitt said, in response to a question asking why Whitfield was always so overcrowded, "We have 10 local mental health centers now in operation in the state of Mississippi and five more under construction or in the planning stage. The trouble is no one knows where they (the Centers) are - they can drive right by one on their way to Whitfield and not know it!"

This situation is what we are trying to change.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

It's a generally accepted fact that time flies, but sometimes a trivial reminder emphasizes the speed of the passing months and years.

Now, it's the middle of April and who would have imagined last Christmas time that a fourth of the bright new year could pass so swiftly! Or that so many important things could take place almost before you could wink your eye! Natural disasters, political crises, crimes, triumphs, great news, horrible news - he first quarter of the new year has rushed through like a comet.

It is fortunate that we could not foresee the events in store for us. An honest goodness prophet must be a most unhappy person. But now that we can view with hindsight the past three months, we can see what unhappiness we were facing on January 1st. Then suddenly it was April, and we had passed through one phase of bad times without scarcely noting it.

One evening in 1936, almost forty years ago, we stepped from a plane onto the soil of Vietnam at the airport of Hanoi. As usual, war was in the air, though just then it was only a rumble and the evening was calm and lovely and the main street was crowded with almost every kind of vehicle and murmurous with chatter and laughter. We read the meager news bulletins, mostly from Hong Kong, from which we had just flown, absorbed a dinner more notable for its quantity than its quality, and then spent the evening at a raucous nightclub, the only one in town, where ships' officers of several nations joined somewhat self-consciously in the alleged festivities.

The next morning we walked down the main street which was exactly like the main street of any Chinese city, to the square or park, reminiscent of Taiyuan park in Shanghai where Chinese flyers desperately fleeing Japanese planes, had lightened their craft by dropping their bombs on the crowd of spectators beneath them. But the park in Hanoi was peaceful, humming with activity, totally unconscious of what time was going to bring to the country, of the death and wounds that many of these very people would suffer, of the starvation and the anguish of broken homes and dying children.

That was forty years ago, only four decades during which the whole world has changed. What will the next half century bring to all of us? Fortunately, we won't be around then to see it!

Veterans Information

Q - I'm an 18 year old son of a World War II veteran who died two months ago. Am I eligible for a GI home loan from the Veterans Administration?

A - No. Only unmarried widows or widowers of service personnel killed on active duty, or of veterans who died from service-connected disabilities, and spouses of service personnel missing in action or captured for more than 90 days, are eligible for GI home loans.

Q - Do Veterans Administration hospitals and clinics take care of reservists injured reporting to, or returning from military training?

A - Yes. Medical care is available for injuries and illnesses which occur during travel time as specified in the reservist's military orders. Both active duty and inactive duty training are considered active duty for this purpose.

Q - Some six million veterans were released from military service between 1955 and 1966. Is it true that these veterans have an additional two years to use their GI Bill benefits under a recent law?

A - Yes. Under a law approved in July 1974 PL (93-337), veterans released during that period who have not exhausted entitlement have 10 years or until May 31, 1976, whichever is later, to complete training. Farm cooperative, flight, apprenticeship and on-job training are available to them until Aug. 30, 1977.

County Agent's Notes

LIME CROPLAND

Although it is getting late, applying lime now to acid soils and working it into the soil will still do some good this year and a lot of good for next year.

Soft limestone, such as Mississippi lime, is more readily available the first year than hard limestone.

Basic slag is finely ground and is a good fast-acting liming material. Slag contains three percent phosphate and can be bought containing five percent phosphate and six percent potash. Some slag also contains boron.

PRODUCTION PORK

Do not try to reduce the cost of producing pork by cutting back sharply on protein. It just won't work! Recent tests conducted at several universities showed that pigs receiving adequate protein outgained those on lower protein rations by one-half per head daily.

Each pound of supplemental protein fed from weaning to market weight saved producers six and one-half pounds of corn.

Besides reducing feed efficiency and the rate of gain, feeding too little protein increases backfat thickness and reduces the percentage of lean cuts.

SOYBEAN CYST NEMATODES

The best and most convenient way of dealing with soybean cyst nematodes is to use a resistant variety. These include Forrest, Mack and Pickett 71.

These resistant varieties will produce as much or more than our standard varieties that are not resistant, even on clean land.

It is also cheaper to plant a resistant variety than to use a nematocide and susceptible variety.

Our Readers Write

Editor, Sea Coast Echo,
Congressman Trent Lott in his Washington Report of April 3rd reported 1) there is no such thing as a free lunch when it comes from the government, and 2) that he would oppose H.R. 4222, the National School Lunch Act and Child Nutrition Act Amendments, putting a 35 cents ceiling on so called "free lunches" etc. His side succeeded.

First, this government sends under the Food For Peace Programs overseas, billions of dollars of food and other commodities every year. A fortiori, it is rumored that the President and Congress will get together a humanitarian program of millions of dollars for the refugees of Indo China, in the coming weeks.

I fully support these programs and Congressman Lott to the contrary notwithstanding, the U.S. government does sponsor free lunch and food programs overseas. And there is practically no ceiling on such aid.

My real "beef" (put intended) is how can Congress and Congressman Lott turn down a small increase in food and nutrition help to our children and yet go on a wild spending spree abroad for other people in foreign lands, who, naturally, if past history is any lesson will continue hating us.

Be that as it may, I think we can have both, and still get along, but first, aid American children with better food and nutrition (as any reader of this paper knows, the menus of the Hancock County School system Lunch programs do leave something to be desired); then, secondly, assist other countries in dynamic programs aimed at helping them help themselves, in sensible agricultural ways and methods.

Cordially,
J. ASHTON-GREENE

I have written to you before concerning our Bay St. Louis Police Department. But, this time I am not writing to speak out against the Department.

I would like to commend our police department for their increased efforts in the enforcement of the vehicular driving laws of the state of Mississippi within Bay St. Louis.

Washington Report

By: Rep. Trent Lott

Remember those grand bureaucrats who brought you the $70,000 study of perspiration odor among Australian aborigines?

Perhaps you remember them as the folks behind the $2.6 million study of the sex life of crabs. They're the same curious probers who asked for - and got - $121,000 of our tax money to tell us why people say "ain't."

Most of us probably agree that such intellectual questions are, indeed, fascinating. Their results probably even serve a useful purpose from time to time.

At a time, however, when our federal deficit is racing towards that unbelievable $100 billion mark, I think we need to re-evaluate our priorities and direct our attention to some of the more pressing problems of our day. After all, when alarming numbers of Americans are standing in unemployment lines they're not exactly waiting with baited (sic) breath to learn why aborigines sweat.

Still, these mind-boggling projects are going on day after day with little or no official objections from the Congress. Everyone seems to complain about it periodically, but no one has ever done anything about it.

If enacted, it will permit Congress to exercise oversight and review

I have seen their actions and efforts and I am impressed to see that the patrolmen of the department seem to have taken more interest through their pride for their city.

They have functioned through radar control and on the spot enforcement, which has somewhat resulted in a general reduction of speed and carelessness among the drivers of this city.

These patrolmen have done something rarely seen in this city. It is called progressive improvement.

They have taken one large step forward for the betterment and safety of their city, and have shown the style of their actions.

Sincerely yours
Henry J. (Chip) Prevoul, Jr.

Editor, Sea Coast Echo

In reading the Sea Coast Echo for many years, there is one thing that amazes me. There are articles about visitors from New Orleans, Crystal Springs, etc., ad infinitum, and there are articles about local residents, of course. But there is never an article about our local black fishermen. I have no ax to grind with anyone, but Peter Favre and Milton Payne each should be honored as Sportsman of the Week. No one in the county can out-fish Walton these guys. Peter Favre catches fish when everyone else has given up; in fact, rumor has it that Peter Favre fished through Hurricane Camille! Those solitary figures you see on the bridge aren't mirages, they're Marselle Singleton, Russell Alexander, Coaches Willie Bradley and Clevon Williams, Brother Dorsey, Sullivan Bell. They are sportsmen all-they aren't out there throwing rocks. As Milton Singleton tells it, if it had not been for his catching that whale, Jonah would never have made it! Why, the last fish I caught was about eighteen inches (for you non-fishermen, that was the distance between its eyes). Come on, Sea Coast Echo, take a good look at the bridge if you want to see some real sportsmen.

VERNAL EQUINOX TO THE RESCUE

Bicentennial News

By JOE PILET

A new century is being born! Tomorrow, April 18, the thoughts of patriotic Americans will turn to Paul Revere whose interest in the movement for American independence led to his famous "midnight ride."

It would seem fitting at this time to devote space in honor of the memory of Paul Revere - the patriot, Revolutionary soldier, craftsman, and industrialist. His birth date was January 1, 1735, Boston, Massachusetts. He was of French Huguenot descent. His name was at first spelled "Rivoire", but the family changed the name because it was difficult to pronounce. Paul Revere's father was a silversmith, and young Paul studied at North Grammar School of Boston, then entered his father's business and was married to Sarah Orme.

Revere engraved political cartoons that received wide attention and he met many Revolutionary Leaders including Samuel Adams and John Hancock. He was one of the 50 patriots in the Boston Tea Party, and he was, of course, the special messenger for Boston patriots. His name appeared in the London Journals before his famous ride. . . a ride on a borrowed horse.

Revere left Boston at around ten o'clock in the evening April 18, 1775 and reached Lexington at midnight. After the signal flashed from the steeple of the Old North Church, about one o'clock, Revere, William Dawes and Dr. Samuel Prescott left for Concord. They were met by a British Cavalry patrol where Revere was captured. Only Prescott got through to Concord. The British released Revere and let him return to Lexington. They kept his horse. When the British arrived in Lexington April 19 the minutemen were waiting for them.

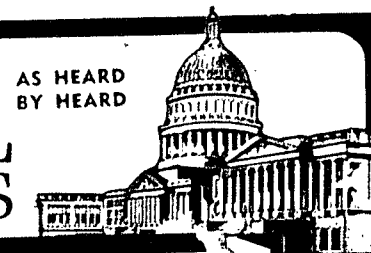

These events led to Revere's years as a Revolutionary soldier. His command extended from 1776 to 1779.

Revere had learned to manufacture gunpowder at a mill in Canton, Massachusetts. He also designed and printed the first issue of Continental paper currency, and made the state seal that is still used in Massachusetts.

Following the war Revere returned to his trade as a silversmith. He marked his work with the name Revere in a triangle or with the initials P.R. He casted cannons and bells which are still in use in New England. He made the copper fittings for the U.S.S. Constitution (Old Ironsides), and built the first copper rolling mill in the United States.

Paul Revere - let us hoist our American flags April 18 in memory and in honor of a great patriot, Revolutionary soldier, craftsman and industrialist!

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

New Optimism

Marking a sudden turn around, for the first time in 18 months the nation's independent business people are more optimistic about obtaining financing.

This is shown in the current quarterly economic report released to the National Federation of Independent Business by Joseph H. Fee, president of Faculty Associates, Inc., an independent research firm retained by NFIB.

During January, working with a selected sample, a team headed by Dr. Richard Bailey of the University of California at Berkeley and Dr. William Dunkelberg of Stanford found 3.6 per cent of the respondents anticipate that it will be easier in the next three months to obtain needed financing.

While perhaps this percentage of 3.6 appears small, it shows an almost 400 per cent increase in optimism on this score than prevailed all last year when only one per cent anticipated easier access to capital with the exception of January, 1974 when three per cent thought they might get money more readily.

It is difficult to determine which vocations are the most optimistic over increased prospects for easier financing. In the construction industry 6.4 per cent of the respondents per cent now expect easier financing as compared to one per cent who felt that way last October. But on the other hand, last October less than one-half of one per cent of the whole-salers looked for easier credit compared to the five per cent who now feel there will be an easing of credit sources.

The only industry which does not reflect enthusiasm over the prospects for easier money is the independent financial sector. In October six per cent in this industry expected greater availability of money as compared to the 6.6 per cent who now hold this feeling.

The surveys by Faculty Associates do not probe into the reasons for this sudden increase in confidence that there will be more financing funds available. It is surmised that with the new Congress displaying stronger populist trends, plus pressures by some in the Congress on the Federal Reserve Bank to increase the money supply, independent business feels something will happen.

But on the reverse side of the coin, when asked what is the single most important problem facing their businesses today, 36.5 per cent of the respondents name inflation, which is only a slight drop from 40 per cent who named inflation the number one problem in October.

Plans underway for multi-purpose city-county library

Plans for a new city-county library scheduled to open early next year will be underway in June said Mrs.

Linda Haas, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

The new 10,000 square foot facility which will be located next to Crosby Furniture on Highway 90 is a joint project of the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

"We don't expect the project to run over $300,000," said

Mrs. Haas. "So far we have received a grant of $204,000 from the federal government under the Library Services Act and the two cities and the county have promised to make up the difference."

Mrs. Haas said that bids for construction of the building would be let in June. Presently, the building design is being finalized by architect Fred Wagner.

of the local needs in the plans for the new building. We have provided a civic room for public meetings, and we have also planned a cultural center for various displays that we never had room for before."

Other features of the new library will be a children's room, inside housing for the bookmobile, a rare books room and a room for cultural exhibits.

The other members of the library Board of Trustees serving with Mrs. Haas are Mrs. Francis McDonald, Mrs. Louise Lynch, Bill Tate and Paul White, Jr.

"This will be the most modern library on the coast," the chairman said. "I think that we have taken care of all grazing livestock and other purposes have been evacuated from the spillway.

In addition, he said, no boats or fishermen will be allowed in the spillway itself because of the danger posed by turbulence from floodwaters pouring through the structure.

The spillway has been operated on four other occasions -- 1937, 1945, 1950 and 1973. It was completed by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers under the direction of the Mississippi River Commission in 1931 at a cost of $14 million.

Located in St. Charles Parish, about 33 river miles upriver from New Orleans, the spillway is part of the overall Mississippi River and Tributaries project for flood control in the lower Mississippi River Valley.

Service crest prediction of 19 feet at New Orleans, La., today April 17. The crest prediction has since been revised to 18.7 feet without the spillway opening, and 18.1 feet with its operation.

Col. Heiberg said, "The levees in New Orleans are generally at 20 feet. However, a crest of 18.7 feet would have given us water against some of our emergency protection such as sandbags or mud-boxes. Adverse wind tides could have easily raised this still another foot. While our best judgment at this time indicates an approximate 10-day opening, we will continue to watch river stages closely, since this will give us a key as to how long the structure will have to remain open."

Heiberg verified that all persons who have permits to use the floodway lands for Mississippi River floodwaters through Lake Pontchartrain to the Gulf of Mexico.

The spillway will initially channel about 150,000 cubic feet per second of excess Mississippi River flood flows. However, the average flow through the structure will be much less as river stages vary.

The decision to open the spillway was made last week by the President of the Mississippi River Commission, Major General Francis P. Koisch, and was based on the National Weather

Bonnet Carre opened

River expected to crest today

At 10 a.m. Monday, amid a driving rainstorm, the New Orleans District of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers began opening the 350 gate bays of the Bonnet Carre spillway to lower Mississippi River levels below the spillway.

Following hand signals given jointly by Representative David C. Trean, R-La., and Colonel E. R. "Vald" Heiberg III, New Orleans District Engineer, Corps workmen began the exacting job of removing the 7,000 large, wooden needles that allow the diversion of petitions doing well

Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver said Tuesday that he should be able to tell in about two weeks whether enough signatures had been obtained from voters to call a public vote on the issue of changing the form of city government from the present mayor-commissioner form to an aldermanic form of government.

Carver said at present 38 petitions were circulating and more would be issued. A total of 750 signatures are needed to bring the issue to a public vote.

The mayor attempted unsuccessfully to put the issue on the ballot through a vote of the city council. City commissioners Clarence Ladner and Lucien Kidd have expressed opposition to the measure, however.

Carver has stated his purpose in attempting the government change is to provide a more representative form of government. He maintains an aldermanic form of government, such as the city government of Waveland, affords citizens a better opportunity to serve the community on a part time basis while holding regular jobs.

The mayor has charged the mayor-council government, created in 1926, is also not representative because of a small black ballot due to now illegal poll taxes.

Vick given suspended sentence

Ileen Vick, 21, of Gulfport, received a five-year suspended sentence and was placed on two years probation last Thursday after entering a guilty plea before U. S. District Judge Walter Nixon to a reduced charge of aiding and abetting in connection with an armed robbery of the Gulf National Bank in Pass Christian last September 19.

Miss Vick was charged with aiding Leroy Migues in the September bank holdup of the GNB Pass Christian branch which netted $26,000.

Prior to Miss Vick's plea, the government attorneys reduced charges against her.

The defendant was apprehended in El Paso, Texas approximately two weeks after the robbery after entering a hospital for treatment of a gunshot wound supposedly inflicted by Migues.

Migues is slated to stand trial May 19 in Biloxi.

Pass Christian Yacht Club presents patriotic fashions

A bicentennial style show, "Spirit of '76", will be presented at the Pass Christian Yacht Club at 6 p.m. Saturday, April 19.

America's Bicentennial will set the theme for a men's and women's style show sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of Pass Christian Yacht Club. Fashions to be shown will be selected by Hewes Brothers of Gulfport with emphasis on spring and summer attire, and will highlight colors of the gala Bicentennial celebration. Members of the Yacht Club and Auxiliary will serve as models.

The Bicentennial style show will begin with a cocktail hour at 6 p.m.

Mrs. Isleta Gayle Braun of Long Beach, who is staging the production, will provide commentary on Spirit of '76 fashions and history of the American flag throughout the presentation. Special music will be arranged and presented by Mrs. Mary Anna Underwood.

The show will open with Bicentennial musical selections by Joan Edwards and the 14-member singing group "The Madrigals," of Long Beach High School.

Coordinators for the style show are Mrs. Catherine Villars and Mrs. Alicia Ellis. Models to be featured are Mrs. Lois Kentzel, Mrs. Sandy Dugan, Mrs. Wilma Erickson, Mrs. Lorette Wittmann, Mrs. Helen Jones, Mrs. Catherine Wood, Miss Maxine Larson, Mrs. Yvonne McNair, Mrs. Laurie Matkin and Mrs. Mary Margaret McQueen.

Male models are C. Randall Jones, Bob Erickson, Bill Matkin, Glen Dillard, George Morse, Commodore Mike Rafferty, Paul Blake, Ed Wilcox, Dr. C.D. Taylor, Jr. and Dr. George Byrne.

Diamondhead sweethearts

Diamondhead; and Sonja Chrystine Davis, Miss Pre-Teen Diamondhead. The contest was held Saturday, April 5, at the Bay Junior High Auditorium.

Garden club discusses workshop

The April 10 meeting of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club featured a discussion by Jerome Boudreaux on the Horticultural Workshop held last summer at Mississippi State University.

Boudreaux presented a slide show of the program highlighting the many subjects covered.

Chairman of the Civic Development Committee, Mrs. Dan M. Russell Jr. was praised for taking first place in the Sears H.A.N.D.S. competition for Gulf Coast Garden Clubs. Bay-Waveland Garden Club will compete with ten southern states for a regional award also sponsored by Sears.

Mrs. A. E. Voight, Chairman of the Birds Committee reported plans to develop a bird sanctuary were moving well with many members installing houses and feeders. Mrs. J. E. Irwin, chairman of the scrapbook committee announced that all arrangements have been made for its completion.

Club President, Mrs. Lelyn W. Nybo, said all plans for the annual Bay-Waveland Garden Club Flower Show have been made and programs are ready for distribution. All amateur gardeners and flower lovers are invited to participate. Printed copies of categories are available from any member of the club.

Reports were given by Mrs. Nybo, Mrs. Fred L. Logan and Mrs. Clarence A. Evans on their recent attendance at the Mississippi State Convention of Garden Clubs. They announced the many awards won by the Bay-Waveland Club.

Mrs. M. S. Mattison tendered her resignation as Recording Secretary which was reluctantly accepted by the membership.

The club voted to accept the following slate of officers presented by Nominating Committee chairman, Mrs. Joseph Viguerie: president - Mrs. Lelyn W. Nybo; first vice president - Mrs. Herman Masarakis; second vice president - Mrs. Fred L. Logan; Recording secretary - Mrs. J. R. Autenreith; corresponding secretary - Mrs. John E. Isom; and treasurer - Mrs. W. Dibrelle Jones.

Congratulations were extended to the following on their recent appointments to the Gulf Coast Council of Garden Club standing committees: Mrs. O. Kuke, Chairman of H.A.N.D.S. committee, and Mrs. J. R. Autenreith, Chairman of the Publicity Committee.

Garden club council hosts flower show

The Gulfport Area Council of Garden Clubs will present their second Flower Show at the Security Markham Building 3-9 p.m. May 1-2. The public is invited and admission is free.

The theme of the show is "United Action For A Better Gulfport, Preserve, Protect, Promote". It is a standard show presented under the rules and regulations of the National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc.

There will be four divisions; Horticulture and Artistic Designs, in which the theme Preserve, Protect, Promote, will be carried out in the arrangements of flowers and foliage, and Junior Gardeners and Educational Exhibits.

Area nurseries are co-operating with special exhibits showing landscaping plants and flowers available for Coast residents' gardens.

Bay student named to Dean's List

Sharon Anne McKenna, Bay St. Louis, has been named to the Dean's List for the winter quarter at the University of Southern Mississippi, Hattiesburg.

Society deadlines

All society items, weddings, engagements, and club news, must be in the office by Tuesday at 5 p.m. for the Thursday issue.

Any item not appearing in the intended edition normally will appear in the next edition.

Forms for writing up engagement announcements and weddings are available free at the Echo office. Only professional black & white photos are acceptable for wedding or engagement announcements.

Diamondhead holds beauty pageant

The first annual Little Miss - Miss Teen Diamondhead Pageant was held Saturday, April 5, at the Bay St. Louis Junior High auditorium. Trophies were awarded to four girls in the divisions Tiny Miss Diamondhead, Little Miss Diamondhead, Miss Pre-Teen Diamondhead and Miss Teen Diamondhead, who will go to Jackson in July to compete for the state titles.

Leanne Jalene Necaise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Necaise of Hancock County, was selected Tiny Miss Diamondhead. Tessie Keenan of Pass Christian, Tracie Smith of Long Beach, Angela Nabors of Long Beach and Candace Graham of Long Beach were selected first, second, third and fourth alternates in the division.

Little Miss Diamondhead, Laura Christine Toop, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Toop, Jr. of Long Beach. The first, second, third and fourth alternates in this division are Kimberly Kay Baker of Long Beach, Cynthia Curlee of Long Beach, Donna Crosby of Picayune and Cindy Bourikas of Long Beach.

Sonja Chrystine Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Davis of Long Beach, was named Miss Pre-Teen Diamondhead with Dinell Burge of Perkinston, Robin Dubisson of Long Beach, Rhonda Deen of Long Beach and Beverly Ann Baker of Long Beach as alternates.

Dawn Vaughn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Vaughan of Pass Christian, was selected Miss Teen Diamondhead. Alternates in this division are Ann Olinger of Long Beach, Cindy Cuevas of Saucier, Lynda Lichtenberg of Long Beach and Debbie Wood of Long Beach.

Lung Association holds annual meeting

The Mississippi Lung Association will hold its 63rd Annual Meeting Wednesday, April 23, at Primos Northgate Convention Hall in Jackson.

Mrs. Mary Jane Green of Grenada, MLA President, announces that over 150 delegates from County Chapters will attend the annual business-luncheon session which will also feature a workshop for volunteers.

Registration will begin at 1 a.m. Mrs. Green and Donald M. Dana, Jr. of Gulfport will conduct the workshop for volunteers at 11 a.m. on Education Programs, Campaign Projects and Public Information.

Dr. Guy Campbell, Chief, Pulmonary Division, V. A. Hospital, will be featured guest speaker. His subject "TB Treatment" and "Management in Mississippi" will outline the change and challenge of new guidelines in the treatment of tuberculosis in Mississippi.

Presentation of awards will be made at the 1975 Annual Meeting of the Mississippi Lung Association. Seven volunteers will be honored with 25-year certificates and 21 "Goal-Breaker" Chapters will be given special recognition. The Distinguished Service Award will also be announced.

Legion hosts campfire girls

Campfire girls from Group Kinunka Tando of Gretna, La. were entertained at the home of George Cleary of Waveland Saturday and Sunday, April 12 and 13.

Saturday the girls were taken on a fishing trip to Bayou Cadet, went berry picking and held a bonfire on the beach.

Sunday a barbecue was held at Discovery Bay in Pass Christian.

Accompanying the girls were group leader Mrs. Jane Sikes and Mrs. Meryl Rigaud. A troop flag was presented to Mrs. Sikes by Cleary in behalf of the American Legion Post No. 77.

Pass students win district science honors

Two Pass High School students were winners recently at the District VI Science Fair March 21 in Hattiesburg.

Cathy Watson, a senior chemistry student, received a third place award in biochemistry for her project entitled "The Effect of Temperature on the Rate of Enzyme Activity," and will enter her project now in the state science fair to be held in Jackson April 19-20.

Sophomore James Gilbert received a special certificate of achievement from the American Speech and Hearing Association for his physics project "Speakers Without Acoustics."

Bay View sets revival services

Revival services will be held at Bay View Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis each evening at 7:30 p.m. April 21-27.

Evangelist Reverend Glenns Bell will preside at the services along with Pastor Woodrow Byrd of Bay View Baptist Church.

MFA plans teacher conservation workshop

A group of some 90 teachers from across Mississippi will study the conservation of the state's forest resources this summer when the Mississippi Forestry Association conducts its annual Teacher Conservation Workshop.

The 12th annual event will feature two one-week sessions June 9-13 and July 7-11 at Perkinston Junior College.

Chairman of the MFA Workshop Committee, Walter Dennis said teachers are able to earn three hours of graduate credit through Mississippi State University.

The entire cost of the workshop is paid by member companies of the MFA, Dennis said. The only cost to the participants is the tuition for the graduate credit.

Teachers wishing to apply for the workshop would contact the Mississippi Forestry Association at 620 North State St., Jackson, Miss. 39201. The deadline is April 25.

The workshop is available to Mississippi teachers and administrators of grades one through 12. Dennis said only 45 applicants will be selected for each workshop session.

Activities at the workshop will be equally divided between classroom sessions and field trips. The subjects are taught by professional foresters, conservationists and scientists.

Subjects range from the environment, forest management, and utilization of wood products to game management and studies of soil, water and minerals. Fifteen areas of study in conservation education will be covered.

JA offers local historic coloring book

The Bay-Waveland Junior Auxiliary is planning the publication of a historic coloring book containing sketches of historical scenes throughout the two city area as part of the celebration of the nation's bicentennial.

Chairman of the coloring book project, Mrs. Walter Gex, said that the club planned to print 1,000 copies for distribution later this month. Local artists John Hertel, Joe Davis and Daryl Babin of the Corn and Taters Culture Trust in Pass Christian drew the eight original sketches in the book including scenes of the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, the old Christ Episcopal Church destroyed by Camille, the original L & N depot, the original St. Stanislaus bell, the old ice cream wagon operated by the Manieri brothers, seafood facilities, old homes, the Merchants Bank and pirate LaFitte and his rum runners.

On the cover of the book is a sketch by John Hertel of Bay St. Louis of the Bay Bridge leading into the Bay St. Louis-Waveland beachfront area.

An introduction, "A Historical Review of the Bay St. Louis-Waveland Area," by Sylvia McComiskey, Hancock County Chamber of Commerce manager accompanies the sketches.

Copies of the coloring book will be offered for sale for $1.50 and are available from members of the Junior Auxiliary as long as the supply lasts.

Sketching the past

Local artists Daryl Babin, John Hertel and Joe Davis look over sketches for the Junior Auxiliary historic coloring book with JA committee chairman Mrs. Kay Gex and Mrs. Sylvia McComiskey, author of the introduction for the publication.

Ole Miss honors

former Mississippi newsman

UNIVERSITY, Miss. - A former Mississippian now serving as Editor-in-Chief of United Press International in New York has been selected to receive the University of Mississippi's Silver Em Award for outstanding contributions to journalism.

H. L. Stevenson of Picayune, received the citation at the conclusion of the annual Mississippi High School Press Institute, attended by more than 600 young Mississippians at Ole Miss. The award is presented to journalists who now work or have previously worked in Mississippi.

Stevenson began his career in journalism with the Picayune Item and later worked for the Weekly Democrat in Poplarville. After serving in various capacities with UPI, he was named Editor-in-Chief in 1972 and is responsible for directing the wire service's coverage of major national and international stories.

The Silver Em Award is sponsored by the Ole Miss Department of Journalism.

New Orleans symphony presents Casey at the Bat

The New Orleans Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra will present a special popular concert featuring broadcaster Wayne Mack as narrator in the story of "Casey at the Bat," and the Ronnie Kole Trio Saturday, May 24, at the St. Bernard Civic Auditorium in Chalmette.

Kole, his drummer Richard Taylor and bass Everett Link will join with conductor Carter Nice and the Symphony in special "big" arrangements, and later in the evening will take the spotlight all by themselves.

The music for "Casey at the Bat" was written by Frank Proto about a year ago and premiered by the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra with the Red's catcher Johnny Bench as narrator. The 85-year-old poem by Ernest Lawrence Thayer, is the story of how Casey, the great slugger, struck out in the ninth inning with the tying run on base.

Tickets for the May 24 concert are on sale at the Bandwagon Music Store, 8741 West Judge Perez Drive in Chalmette, 279-4366, and in New Orleans at Werlein's Box Office, 605 Canal Street, 522-6522. Tickets are also on sale at the Symphony office, 203 Carondelet Street, 524-0404.

Rutherfords hold joint birthday

Dr. and Mrs. J.D. Rutherford's North Beach home was the setting Saturday of a joint birthday celebration of their children, Julie and John David.

Attending Julie's fourth and John's first birthday party were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Rutherford, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Kidd. Their uncle John Kidd and aunts Diana and Lucinda Kidd, Jan Rutherford, Mrs. Janet Freeman and Mrs. Anthony Moran were there with cousins Susan and J. E. Moran. Also present for the occasion were Dr. and Mrs. Sidney Chevis, Karen and Billy Chevis, Ricky Hill, Joann Dorsey and Pouldeaux Gayaut.

Auxiliary sponsors Girls State delegates

American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 139, made plans Monday night to send a representative to Girls State.

The Auxiliary and Junior Auxiliary will conduct their annual Poppy Day May 24, said president Mrs. C. J. Piazza. The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. May 12.

Something for everyone

The theme for National Library Week this year April 13-19 is "Do your own thing at the library." Local libraries in Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Pass Christian and Long Beach have presented a week long series of programs to prove that the libraries have something to interest citizens of any age and any interest as well.

Post office issues Griffith memorial stamp

A 1975 commemorative stamp honoring motion picture pioneer D. W. Griffith will be issued beginning May 27 announced the U. S. Postal Service. A ceremony has been planned for the first day of issue in Beverly Hills, California hosted by the American Film Institute and featuring Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailor as well as many notables of the film industry. The 10-cent Griffith stamp, depicting the movie maker's left profile in the foreground and a motion picture camera silhouetted against a horizon in the background, was unveiled at the Museum of Art in New York City Jan. 22, the centennial of the birth of the famed director.

Griffith became widely acclaimed for the cinematographic innovations which gave movies a new dimension. Closeups, fadeouts, crosscutting were Griffith trademarks, and he is credited with being the first to use process photography, the technique in which two elements are combined. Those interested in the first-day cancellation of the D. W. Griffith stamp should address requests to "D. W. Griffith Stamp, Postmaster, Beverly Hills, California, 90213."

Ten cents and a self-addressed envelope should be enclosed for each stamp to be cancelled. The envelope with canceled stamp will be returned through the mail. Remittances should be by check or money order, rather than cash, and postage stamps will not be accepted as payment. Orders must be postmarked no later than May 27.

The D. W. Griffith Stamp will go on sale at all Post Offices May 28.

Poetry contest seeks entries

The World of Poetry will award a $1,000 first place prize in the First Annual Poetry Competition. Poems of all subjects are eligible to win the grand prize or any of 50 other cash or merchandise awards. Each winning poem will be included in the World of Poetry Anthology. The contest will be judged by an independent panel of Chaparral Poetry Society. Rules and official entry forms are available by writing to World of Poetry, 801 Portola Drive, Suite 211, San Francisco, California 94127. The contest closes June 30.

Eggs provide European menus

How many times have you wanted to surprise your family, or delight a dinner party with a meal from Europe? Like Moussaka, the traditional main dish from Greece. Moussaka is a money-saver. A potato and meat casserole that is a bargain. And all because of eggs: the international staple. Eggs make Moussaka an easy, economical meal for your food budget. And eggs are good for you too.

MOUSSAKA
2 eggs, beaten
1 lb. ground beef
1 chopped onion
½ cup tomato sauce

salt and pepper to taste
1 tablespoon butter
sprinkle of parsley
4 medium potatoes
oil for frying
Parmesan cheese
½ clove garlic, crushed
Sauce:

2 eggs, beaten
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups hot milk
Parmesan cheese

Peel and cut potatoes into ½" thick slices. Deep fry in hot fat until light brown. Remove and blot on paper towels. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese on bottom of a 2 quart souffle dish and add a layer of potatoes, alternating Parmesan cheese and potatoes, saving one layer of potatoes aside.

Saute onion and garlic until golden brown. Add ground beef and cook until pink disappears. Add tomato sauce, salt, and pepper. Cook over low heat. Beat two eggs - add a little of hot mixture to eggs and stir. Mix this into meat, adding parsley. Put meat mixture on top of potatoes, adding the last layer of potatoes on top. Top with the following sauce: Melt butter and add flour. Cook several minutes and add hot milk. Remove from heat and allow to cool. Pour over two well beaten eggs, adding three tablespoons of Parmesan cheese. Then pour sauce over last layer of potatoes. Bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Serves four.

VFW auxiliary elects officers

Mrs. Lucille Boudreaux was re-elected president of VFW Ladies Auxiliary, Post 3253, Bay St. Louis, at the April meeting.

Others named to office were Mrs. Zedie Bermond, senior vice-president; Mrs. Loretta Johnson, junior vice-president; Mrs. Joyce Bermond, chaplain; Mrs. Elda Duke, patriotic instructor; Mrs. Myra Biehl, conductress; Mrs. Gladys Niglatzo, historian; Mrs. Lillian Carver, guard; Mrs. Helen Biehl, treasurer; Mrs. Susan Bermond, trustee for one year; Mrs. Violet Dedeaux, trustee for two years and Mrs. Geraldine Benigno, trustee for three years. Mrs. Mabel Baumgartner was appointed secretary.

Mrs. Elda Duke, a VFW Auxiliary member since 1938, was given a lifetime membership. She formerly held memberships in Illinois, Alabama and Georgia Auxiliaries.

The next meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday, May 14, at the VFW home.

Parents offered education conference

Education for Parenthood will be the topic of a one-day conference scheduled April 23 in Hattiesburg by the Governor's Committee for Children and Youth sponsored by the Governor's Office of Education and Training.

Ellen Perkinson, Executive Secretary of the Governor's Committee for Children and Youth, said that the meeting will focus on parenthood education programs that have met with success in other states and in Mississippi through the schools and communities.

"The majority of parents are poorly prepared, or not prepared at all," she said. "Many of our social problems stem from the inadequate home situations that could have been corrected if parents had received some training in child development concepts before taking on the complex task of rearing children."

The nationwide Education for Parenthood program was launched jointly by the U. S. Office of Education and the U. S. Office of Child Development in September, 1972 with a curriculum model called "Exploring Childhood". This federal program was field tested in approximately 200 public schools and private centers throughout the United States. Community programs sponsored by organizations such as the Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, and 4-H Clubs have been a part of the federal project.

Mr. Stanley Kruger, Special Programs Director, U. S. Office of Education, has assisted the Governor's Committee for Children and Youth in selection of program agenda and speakers. Mr. Kruger will be one of the featured speakers for the conference.

A panel of professionals discussing the importance of parenthood education will include Dr. George T. Kinbrough, Professor Sam Tucker, Honorable Harold B. Cudley, Dr. Eugene Barnes, and Dr. Billye Bob Currie.

Other speakers for the Hattiesburg conference will be Mrs. Ruth Lawrence and Mr. Daniel Baron from the Child Development Program of the Mississippi Band of Choctaw Indians; Mrs. Lynn Richardson, Project Director of Education for Parenthood, Girl Scouts, U.S.A.; Ms. Diane Willis from the Education Development Center, Cambridge, Massachusetts; Professor Rene Reeb, University Medical Center, Jackson; and Ms. Dolly Wolverson, Children's Bureau, U. S. Office of Child Development.

Exhibits of available materials on the subject of parenthood education will be furnished by the Mississippi Library Commission and the U. S. Office of Education. The public is invited to attend the conference which will take place at the University of Southern Mississippi in the Commons Building in Hattiesburg.

Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Ellen Perkinson, Governor's Office of Education and Training, 3825 Ridgewood Road, Jackson, or calling 354-7074 in Jackson.

Gardeners exhibit spring creations

The Bay-Waveland Garden Club will present its annual spring flower show, "Tis Spring and a Thousand Birds Sing", from 2:30 to 5 p.m. Saturday, April 19 and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, April 20, at the Waveland American Legion Home.

Judges will award trophies to winners in five separate divisions including artistic design, horticulture, high school gardeners, junior gardeners and special exhibits.

The flower show is open to the public. All amateur gardeners are invited to participate.

Tender Loving Care

The employees and staff of HGH extend their sympathy to the family and friends of Mrs. Lear Schindler.

The business office is happy to welcome Kay Fi De la Reguera this week who will be working at the switch board. It is good to have Janet Rogers back with us again and our thoughts and prayers here at HGH continue to be with her and her family.

We are both pleased and proud to share with you the news that HGH has received approval for a renewal for a two-year accreditation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals. This approval follows a thorough inspection of all facets of the hospital's facilities and operation by representatives from the Joint Commission.

Bands rate high in Jackson festival

Two local schools attending the Spring Band Festival in Jackson April 8 received all superior and excellent ratings in various categories in the statewide contest. Bay Senior High received its second consecutive overall superior rating at the festival. The band also received its third consecutive rating of superior in three other categories, marching, inspection and drum major. In other categories the band rated superior in concert, superior in student conducting and excellent in sight reading. Bay High's drum major is senior Miss Kim Sumrall.

daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norris Sumrall of Bay St. Louis. Miss Peggy Smith, senior at Bay High and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith of Bay St. Louis is student conductor. Joseph Cacibauda is band director. St. Stanislaus band also received excellent and superior ratings at the festival. Drum major Steve Scott, a senior and son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Scott of New Orleans and Pass Christian, received a superior rating. The band, directed by Davis Williams, received excellent ratings in concert, sight reading and marching.

Ole Miss student advances bacteria research

UNIVERSITY, Miss. - A University of Mississippi graduate student has discovered a new way to identify bacteria through unique electronic properties possessed by various species of bacteria.

Rick Ross of Gulfport, Ole Miss Biology graduate student, constructed a device which he calls the Bacterial Discriminator and Identifier as a phase of his thesis research. The new method will eliminate many complicated procedures now required for identification, such as isolation, growth of pure cultures, and mobility tests.

hours to several days," Ross explained. "With the BDI, such diagnosis could be made within seconds. Because of the speed of this procedure, early detection and treatment could prevent bacterial infections from reaching critical stages."

Ross said the present BDI is a rather crude device, "something like comparing the Wright Brothers' first airplane to a 747."

Garden club receives state honors

Members of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club returned from the annual convention of the Garden Clubs of Mississippi in Greenville, Miss. April 8 and 9 with several awards recognizing the achievements of the local chapter.

The chapter received the Geraldine Dean Trophy for the best yearbook. The award was accepted at the convention by yearbook chairman and second vice-president, Mrs. Fred Logan.

A second place certificate of achievement in the category Visiting Gardens was also presented to the chapter representatives Mrs. Lelyn Nybo, president, Mrs. Fred Logan, and Mrs. Clarence Evans. Mrs. Robert Akers is the local chairman of the Visiting Gardens and Pilgrimage committee.

A certificate of appreciation from Care was presented to the chapter for its contribution to the fund for world gardening. Throughout the past year the Garden Clubs of Mississippi have contributed a total of $1800 for the improvement of vegetable gardening in underdeveloped nations of the world. Mrs. John Cook is the local chairman of the World Gardening Fund.

Several special awards were also given to individual members of the chapter. Mrs. Cleve Allen was recognized for special service to the state President and Mrs. Clarence Evans, editor of "Miss Gardener," the quarterly publication of the state organization received a gift of thanks as well as former editor, Mrs. Dan Russell.

The club also received a certificate of appreciation for a scholarship fund for the Horticulture Summer Seminar at Mississippi State University.

Ceramic artistry

Local ceramic merchant Emory Pendergraft displays his first, second and third place sculptures from the Slidell Ceramic Club Show. Pendergraft was also named the second overall winner in the professional division of the show.

Three serve Mental Health Center

Three Bay St. Louis residents, Rita B. Balch, Piji White and Ashton Brisolara, are presently serving on the staff or as special consultants to the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center in Gulfport. The center serves all of Region 13 including Hancock, Harrison, Stone and Pearl River counties.

Miss Balch, the Center's consultant to Head Start, is a graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi and also holds a masters degree in educational psychology from Michigan State. Miss Balch is in charge of directing referrals of handicapped children for evaluation if retardation is suspected, of scheduling individual and group treatment and of advising classroom teachers of preventative programs to offset emotional problems.

Miss White, also a graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi with a masters from the University of Iowa, is coordinator of the Center's Children's Services, Day Treatment Program. Among her duties is to plan and teach therapeutic exercises for adults and children.

She is now in the process of planning a summer day camp for children ages six to 12 who are having emotional problems. The camp will consist of four two week sessions held throughout the summer. Each session will meet from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. each day, Monday through Thursday. The five hours a day will include recreation therapy, arts and crafts and swimming.

Mr. Brisolara, Alcohol and Drug Abuse Counselor, is also the Executive Director of the Committee on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse in New Orleans. He has recently helped to design special treatment for the clients of the Center and in development of diagnostic evaluation and treatment programs.

Ole Miss students aid deaf children

UNIVERSITY, Miss., -- Ole Miss students have recently been working with deaf or partially deaf students to reinforce, vocabulary and language concepts in unique ways including touring a dairy, visiting the University Police Department, and ambulance riding.

The Lafayette County Elementary School class for hearing impaired children, staffed and funded by the Communicative Disorders

Department at Ole Miss, is beneficial to both University students and its students. Graduate and undergraduate students in the program spend as much as 200 hours with the children before beginning student teaching assignments.

"Field trips are an important part of our program since they broaden the children's experiences and make classroom lessons more meaningful; they can actually see some of the things being taught in class," said instructor Muriel Word.

Thus far the boys and girls have been handcuffed and fingerprinted at the University Police Department; toured an airport; watched postal workers sorting the mail; inspected milk being processed and packaged for delivery. Prior to class trips, children are advised by pictures and written word what to expect.

"Then, during the trip we like to take pictures of the children in the setting we talked about, and while touring, point out all those things discussed earlier. When we get back to class, we go over everything again using the photos as reference, making use of both speech and sign language," Miss Word said. "Reinforcement of vocabulary is very important and necessary."

Coming Events

Monthly meeting of the Sodality of Our Lady of St. Clare's Parish, Waveland, will be held 2 p.m. Tuesday, April 23, in Costello Hall.

All members are asked to attend.

Shopping several stores can reduce grocery bill

MISSISSIPPI STATE Service. Does it pay to do your grocery shopping in several stores? The answer to this question depends on several factors, says Ann O. Rushing, marketing specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "Perhaps the first factor to consider is the time that you have to do your shopping," Mrs. Rushing suggests. "Certainly if you work away from home you have very little time to devote to shopping.

You must do your shopping in as little time as possible, so you can get those hundred and one other things done that confront you," Mrs. Rushing adds.

Another factor to consider is the distance between stores. When two or more stores are located in the same area, then it is not too difficult to do some comparative shopping. However, if the stores that fit your shopping needs are several miles apart, the cost of gas and wear and tear on the automobile might cancel out any savings you might make in shopping. The amount you can save by shopping several stores depends on the relative prices in these stores.

Getting acquainted

of St. Stanislaus at the close of the present school session. Brother Pierre and Brother Hubert visited Waller in Jackson recently.

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Many supermarkets are promoting the sale of baby beef, grass fed beef, heavy veal and other types of veal. The characteristics, methods of cookery and nutritive value for these types of beef are varied and not known to many people, reports Mrs. Ina G. Kimbrough, foods and nutrition specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Veal is the meat from young milk-fed calves, weighing 140 to 250 pounds. A gourmet favorite, the delicious pale pink meat is low in fat. To eat it at its best—tender juicy and with a delicate flavor—cook slowly at low temperatures, Mrs. Kimbrough advises.

Heavy veal or baby beef is the meat of older calves, 4 to 10 months old, that weigh 300 to 650 pounds prior to marketing. They have just been weaned and therefore grown on a diet of milk and grass. The meat resembles veal in size and quality. The lean is greyish pink in color and is mild in flavor. The white fat cover is thin, from about one-eighth, to one-fourth inch thick, and some marbling may be present in the meat.

The meat of veal and heavy veal or baby beef is similar. Veal is very high in connective tissue and water, and low in fully developed muscle tissue. "An important factor in their cookery is to enhance and maintain the juices of the meat," says Mrs. Kimbrough. "Braising and other coatings, marinating and brushing with fat, or using strips of bacon over the top aid in keeping the juiciness in the meat."

Roasts from veal, heavy veal or baby beef are best cooked medium done rather than well done. Place on a rack in an open, shallow roasting pan and insert a meat thermometer. Do not add liquids or cover the pan. Roast in an oven heated to 300-325 degrees until thermometer registers medium done. Garnish the roast with bacon slices for extra flavor. Allow 25 to 30 minutes per pound for roasting.

The chuck and round from veal, heavy veal or baby beef should be cooked by slow braising. Mrs. Kimbrough suggests, "Brown the meat in a small amount of fat, season, cover and cook with one-fourth to one-third cup of liquid until done. Tomato juice, sour cream and other sauces enhance the flavor when added as liquid in braising. Braised steaks should cook from 45 minutes to one hour; pot roasts, two to two and one-half hours and stews, one and one-half to two and one-half hours."

Grass-fed beef is usually 12 to 20 months of age and weighs from 600 to 1,000 pounds when marketed. The meat is usually graded USDA Good or lower. The absence of grain in the ration reduces the level of fat cover on the outside of the carcass and the marbling or interlacing of fat within the lean. Marbling in meat is associated with juiciness and flavor, but should not significantly affect the tenderness. However, young beef is usually more tender.

Rib roasts from grass-fed beef may be cooked as usual by roasting with the dry heat method. Due to a lack of marbling in the lean, a roast may become too dry when cooked too well done.

The chuck and round cuts of grass-fed beef should be cooked by slow braising. Brown, season, cover and cook with one-fourth to one-third cup liquid for two and one-half to three and one-half hours, depending on the size of the cut.

"Broil only the most tender cuts of grass-fed beef," Mrs. Kimbrough suggests. "Steaks such as short loin and sirloin may be brushed with melted fat before broiling, and served rare to medium done. If a well done steak is preferred, prepare the steaks covered as in braising to assure tenderness and to avoid excessive dry meat."

Each serving of veal, heavy veal, baby beef or grass-fed beef is a source of high quality protein, iron, B vitamins, zinc and other trace minerals. However, a serving of the grass-fed beef will contain less calories than the grain-fed beef because it has less marbling or fat content and more water.

Lions begin eye bank program

The Lions Club of Mississippi recently announced the formation of a new Eye Bank Program.

Under the program persons may donate their eyes to the eye bank before their death. Governor Bill Waller recently signed an act allowing licensed morticians to enucleate the donated eyes after death to be used for the cornea transplant surgery. The Lions Club is cooperating with eye banks in other areas in order to fill all requests. Fifteen transplants have been reported this year and there are presently eight requests awaiting transplants.

Take a shopping list with you to the store. This usually helps to prevent impulse buying. And don't go shopping when you're hungry. That expensive cake might look just a little too good.

American diets increase in fats

In 1900 the diet of the average American contained about 30 percent fat. Today the American diet typically includes 40 to 45 percent fat. During these 75 years there has been a parallel increase in the incidence of the heart disease, arteriosclerosis — formation of lumpy fatty deposits in the arteries.

These fatty deposits contain considerable amounts of the chemical cholesterol. Just as a water pipe becomes plugged up by deposits from hard water, so arteries can become plugged up by these fatty deposits. When this happens a heart attack or a stroke results.

While such factors as stress, lack of exercise, and smoking contribute to coronary heart disease, it is generally thought that a diet rich in fats, especially the hard solid ones associated with butter, beef, pork and animal fats in general increase the cholesterol content in the blood. High blood cholesterol levels have been linked statistically to arteriosclerosis.

Solid fats are often called saturated fats because the individual fat molecules are saturated with hydrogen. Monounsaturated fats are so named because the individual molecules can add some more hydrogen at one location. In other words, the molecules are not saturated with hydrogen.

Polyunsaturated fat molecules can add more hydrogen in more than one location. Whereas saturated fats tend to raise the cholesterol level in the blood, monounsaturated fats usually have no effect, but polyunsaturated fats tend to lower the blood cholesterol level.

In contrast to the saturated fats, which are solids, the mono- and poly-unsaturated fats are oils and come from plants. The main oils used in cooking are corn, cottonseed, and soybean. They are sometimes referred to as vegetable oils, a somewhat inaccurate term unless you are a boll weevil.

When America was primarily a rural country and farm families raised hogs, the grease or fat, called lard, that cooked out of pork was saved and used as shortening for bread, cakes, etc., also as seasoning for vegetables as well as the fat needed for frying various foods.

As the country became less agricultural and cities grew larger, lard packaged in waxed boxes by large meat packing plants was bought in stores by city dwellers as their main source of cooking fat.

By this time, however, vegetable oils, especially cottonseed oil, were abundant and inexpensive. Yet, the American housewife preferred to use lard because (1) she was accustomed to it and (2) oils had a greater tendency than solid fats to "pick up" odors and flavors and become rancid much more easily.

Then producers of vegetable oils had a brilliant idea. Chemists had shown that it was possible to add hydrogen to the naturally unsaturated liquid oils and thereby convert them into man-made solid fats.

Why not hydrogenate (add hydrogen to) vegetable oils to make white solid fats that would look even more appealing, have less odor, and be better preserved than lard? Thus there appeared on the scene—the so called "solid vegetable shortenings" such as Spay, Crisco, etc. which began to compete more and more in sales with lard.

Unfortunately the consumer is confused by all the advertising and terminology and thinks that if it is a vegetable shortening, it must be less cholesterol-producing than an animal fat. In fact, to make a solid vegetable shortening from a vegetable oil requires the loss of some or all of the unsaturation or polyunsaturation and the predominately saturated product that results is almost the same as solid animal fat and tends to increase the cholesterol level in the blood.

Thus the consumer should remember that regardless of the terms used, if the fat is a solid it is more cholesterol-producing than if it is an oil.

4-H announces poster program

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Mississippi 4-H members who have an artistic touch and competitive desire should enter the 1975 Poster Art Program. The Poster Art Program is an exhibit contest which is open to any currently enrolled 4-H member, announces Miss Ollie D. McWhirter, 4-H youth development specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

The three theme areas that a 4-H'er may select from for his or her poster are 4-H—Room to Grow, We are Involved, and You've Got a Friend in 4-H. A 4-H member may submit only one poster in the state competition. The deadline for state entries is July 15.

All posters must be designed on or affixed to .016 ply construction poster board (solid fiber board) that is 14 inches by 22 inches in size. The poster may be either a vertical or horizontal design produced through the use of watercolor, ink, crayon, acrylic, oils, or collage mediums. It can not be three dimensional and posters incorporating copyrighted materials will not be accepted.

All state entries will be judged and placed in blue, red and white ribbon categories. The three most outstanding posters in the state will be submitted to the National 4-H Service Committee and will become a part of the National Poster Art Exhibit. The National Exhibit will be displayed at the 1975 National 4-H Congress at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago, Ill. Additional showings of the Exhibit will also be arranged. The three state poster contest winners will receive a certificate and a medal signifying participation in the National 4-H Poster Art Exhibit, courtesy of Coats and Clark, Inc. Currently enrolled 4-H members who are interested in drawing and designing, should contact your local 4-H Youth Agent for information concerning the 1975 4-H Poster Art Program for your county.

Bread, cereal make good vitamin sources

MISSISSIPPI STATE — What are well liked, inexpensive, and easily fitted into meal plans? The answer—breads and cereals. Also, these foods provide worthwhile amounts of vitamins and minerals, as well as food energy, says Nancy Ertz, foods and nutrition specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

The latest national food consumption survey showed that only 12 cents of every food dollar went for flour, cereals and bakery products. Even at such a small cost, these foods supplied thiamin, iron, protein and riboflavin in diets.

To help you get your money's worth from breads and cereals, Miss Ertz suggests several savings tips.

Whole-grain or enriched products are more nutritious than unenriched products. It takes three pounds of unenriched bread to give the amount of thiamin that is contained in one pound of enriched bread or one pound of whole-wheat bread.

A large loaf of bread does not always weigh more or contain more food value than a small loaf. Miss Ertz suggests that you compare prices of equal weights of bread to find the better buy. The weight is usually shown on the wrapper.

Spaghetti, macaroni and noodles in packages marked "enriched" are more nutritious and usually cost no more than unenriched ones.

Parboiled or enriched rice is more nutritious than white milled rice. It costs a little more, but the extra food value it provides is well worth the extra cost.

Day-old bread and baked goods may be available at a great saving. Ask or watch for these in the stores where you shop, urges Miss Ertz.

Eye trouble can cause school problems

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Beginning school is an exciting experience for a child. Help your child benefit to the fullest, by being sure he's prepared now for school this fall, suggests Miss Susie Overstreet, health education specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

A child who doesn't see well may find school frustrating rather than fun. Your child does not know how well he sees or does not see. He can not tell you if he sees the world around him as he should, and you cannot always look at him and tell what he is seeing. Some eye defects are obvious, but others are not.

Lazy-eye blindness can occur in children whose eyes appear perfectly normal. Crossed eyes and other vision defects may lead to lazy-eye blindness. Lazy-eye blindness can usually be prevented if its cause is detected and treated before school age. If not, it can lead to permanent loss of sight in the affected eye Miss Overstreet warns.

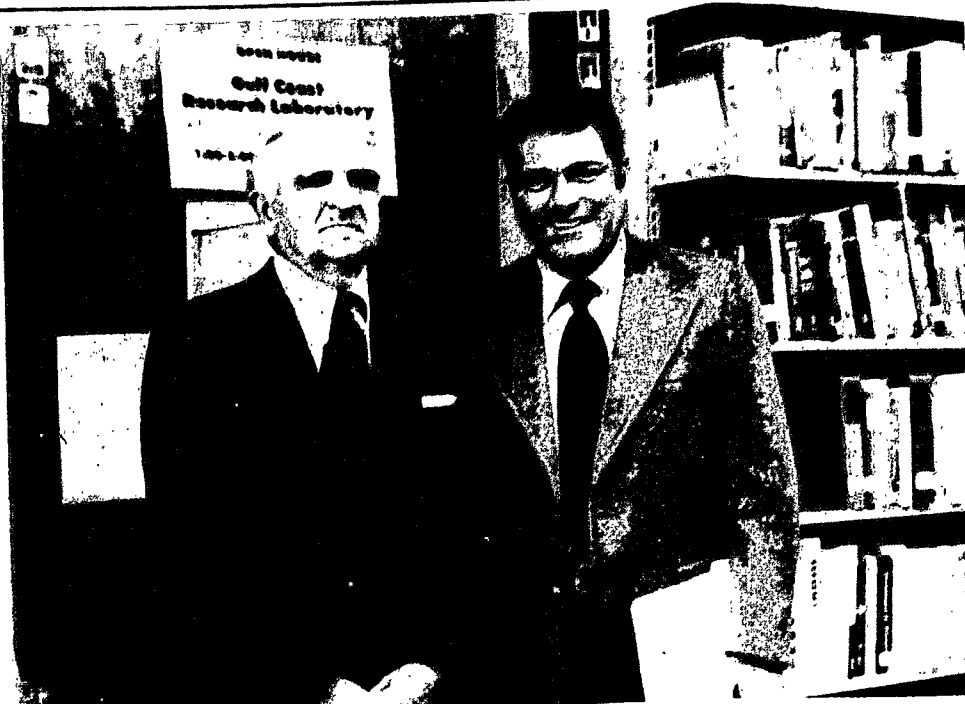

"If your child has not had an eye examination in the last two years he should have one," advises Miss Overstreet.

"Lazy-eye is just what it says. The child sees a double image and to free himself from seeing this confusing double image, the child uses only the stronger eye. Therefore the weak or lazy-eye does not function."

On the other hand, your child may have obvious signs of eye trouble. These may be squinting, blinking, rubbing his eyes, complaining of headaches, head tilting, holding books very close or avoiding close work altogether. The only way to be sure that your child's eyesight is all right is to have regular eye examinations, says Miss Overstreet.

Most eye defects are correctable. But even if your child has a defect that cannot be corrected you need to know. By knowing, you can make adjustments in his school and study habits to help him more successfully deal with the problem.

"Eyesight is a priceless gift. Don't neglect it. Most of your child's learning, not to mention his enjoyment of life, comes by way of his eyes. Through regular eye care possible visual difficulties can be detected early, and most can be corrected," states Miss Overstreet.

Patron of the Year

Carl Cater, a native of Hamburg, Germany who has made his home in Waveland for the past six years, receives a plaque as patron of the year from the City-County Library

Board of Trustees. Waveland Mayor John Longo also presented Cater with a certificate of honorary citizenship of Waveland.

Teachers study discipline problems

NATCHEZ, Miss. — A special conference for teachers and administrators to study discipline problems will be held June 2-3 at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Veteran educators will guide a workshop on discipline techniques in the classroom. They are Dr. Johnny Purvis, director, and Dr. Carl Wallace King, Jr., featured speaker. King is principal of Ferriday (Louisiana) High School and adjunct faculty member at USM-Natchez. Purvis is supervisor of elementary schools for the Caldwell Parish School System and instructor of curriculum and instruction at USM-Natchez.

A focus will be on behavior modification techniques, personal relationships with students; and an in-service program on discipline for an individual school or system. Early reservations can be made by writing to Box 55, Southern Station, Hattiesburg, Miss. On-campus registration will be held 8 a.m. June 2 at USM-Natchez in Duncan Park.

Energy ratio saves money

MISSISSIPPI STATE — The Energy Efficiency Ratio (E.E.R.) may be a new term to you, but one certainly worth knowing about. It can save you money on your electric bill, says Frances Fortenberry, housing and equipment specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

The E.E.R. appeared on room air conditioner labels for the first time last summer and provides information to help the consumer decide which is the best buy. It indicates how efficiently air conditioners and other appliances use energy.

There are definite variations in the amount of energy various brands of appliances require to perform essentially the same task or service, so the more efficient one that uses less energy is a better buy.

"For example," says Miss Fortenberry, "some room air conditioner models are more efficient than other models — that is, they use less energy, yet have the same cooling capacity. More efficient units of similar capacity, style and other characteristics will use less electricity and, therefore, cost less to operate."

The E.E.R., which is a voluntary program, will not be found on all models and the price of those with a rating may be slightly higher. However, the savings in electricity used should soon offset the higher price paid by the consumer for the service.

"Refrigerators and freezers will be the next appliances to be labeled and many other appliances will eventually include E.E.R. information," announces Miss Fortenberry.

For room air conditioners, the E.E.R. is found by dividing BTU's of cooling by watts of electricity used. The higher the E.E.R. the more efficient the unit. In one size of room air conditioners, the E.E.R. range may vary from 6.9 to 12 and in another size there may be very little difference in efficiency.

"E.E.R. is by no means the only consideration to make when selecting any appliance. Don't forget other important factors," warns Miss Fortenberry.

Look for the label with the E.E.R. on it and use the information to buy appliances that use less electricity.

String of Pearls tryouts slated

POPLARVILLE — Tryouts for the String of Pearls for the 1975-76 season at Pearl River Junior College has been set for 3:30 p.m. Friday, April 18 in the band hall on the Poplarville campus.

The try-outs are open to all girls, ages 16-21, who will be attending PRC as a freshman or sophomore next year.

Candidates do not have to have a previously planned routine. They will be taught a dance, kick, and strut routine at the try-outs.

Selection will be based on ability to perform the routines and personal appearance. Previous experience is helpful, but not a prerequisite.

The String of Pearls have been applauded for their outstanding performances at athletic events, and parades all over the state of Mississippi and in Louisiana. The members of the team receive a $125 scholarship in return for the work they do.

OLD FASHIONED POTATO SALAD

- 2 pounds cooked, cubed potatoes (6 medium)
- 3 hard cooked eggs, chopped
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1/2 cup corn oil
- 1/4 cup tarragon vinegar
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon paprika
- 3/4 cup Hellmann's or Best Foods real mayonnaise
- Green pepper, cut in rings (optional)

In large bowl mix together potatoes, egg, onion, celery and paprika. Stir together corn oil, vinegar, salt, sugar and paprika; toss lightly with vegetables. Cover and chill at least 2 hours. Just before packing, toss with real mayonnaise. Garnish with green pepper rings, if desired. Makes 8 (3/4 cup) servings.

ORIENTAL RECIPES

To cut down on the amount of meat you serve, try Oriental recipes, suggests Extension foods and nutrition specialist Nancy Ertz. Most of them combine small amounts of meat with a wide variety of vegetables to produce delightful meals. Usually they're quick and easy to fix, too. You'll get enough protein and still cut down on meat expense.

Cheese adds variety, saves money

MISSISSIPPI STATE - Do you know how to buy cheese? Mrs. Ann O. Rushing, marketing specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, suggests the following tips on buying and using cheese to help you get the most for your cheese dollar.

Aged or sharp natural cheese often costs more than mild cheese, and imported cheese usually costs more than that produced in the U. S. Prepackaged sliced, cubed, or grated cheese, though usually more convenient to use, may cost more than wedges or sticks. Pasteurized process cheese, a blend of natural cheeses melted together, is always in abundant supply and almost always costs less than natural cheese.

Refrigerate all cheese, Mrs. Rushing advises. "Soft unripened cheeses cottage, cream, and Ricotta will spoil if you don't use them within a few days. Other cheeses will last for several weeks," adds Mrs. Rushing.

Cheese is very high in protein and is a good change of pace from meat dishes. For variety, Mrs. Rushing suggests you try the following guide for using some of the common cheeses.

For salads use Cottage, Ricotta, Edam, Gouda, Blue or Cream. Blue and Cream cheeses are good in dressings.

For sandwiches use Cottage, Cream, Mozzarella, Brie, Monterey, Camembert, Brick, Muenster, Colby, Edam, Gouda, Provolone, Swiss, Cheddar and Process Cheese.

In cooked dishes use Mozzarella, Provolone, Parmesan, Cheddar, Ricotta and Process Cheese. Parmesan is good grated as seasoning.

For desserts use Cottage and Cream cheese, Brie, Camembert, Limburger, Brick, Muenster, Port du Salut, Cheddar, Edam, Gouda and Blue. Slices of cheese and fresh fruit or crackers make a good dessert.

Summer vegetable gardening helps whip inflation

MISSISSIPPI STATE - This is the first in a series of step-by-step articles designed to help the home gardener plan, plant, cultivate and enjoy a successful vegetable garden. The "WIN (Whip Inflation Now) GARDENGUIDE" will feature the latest horticultural information recommended by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service Horticultural Department.

"The first step along the road to a successful garden," advises Dr. Milo Burnham, horticulturist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, "is to thoroughly plan the garden. This involves selecting the site, determining the size and shape, selecting the vegetables to be grown, and developing a plan on paper to show the location of each vegetable."

The ideal vegetable garden site should be close to the home but not shaded by tall buildings or trees. It should be near a water supply and receive full sunlight all day. The soil should contain plenty of organic matter and be loose, fertile and well-drained.

"Few veteran gardeners or those wanting to start a garden for the first time are fortunate enough to have an ideal garden site," Dr. Burnham explains. "Just because you do not have the ideal garden site doesn't mean you can not have a successful garden. With the proper selection of vegetables and careful management of the soil, you can grow some vegetables in almost any location," he continued.

A fence around the garden site is a wise investment if there are children playing or dogs and other animals running loose near the garden. However, you should be careful to keep the fence row clean of weeds. Weeds serve as a refuge for insect pests and are a source of diseases. Dr. Burnham also warns against selecting a garden site that is known to have serious weed problems, such as a heavy infestation of Johnson grass, nut grass or any other troublesome weeds.

The garden site should not be in a low, wet place which is slow to dry in the spring after a rain. The site should also not be on a steep slope where the soil erodes easily. A gentle slope is fine and will aid in draining off surface water after a rain.

Your choice of a garden site will also be influenced by the size of the garden you want to grow. Dr. Burnham explains. In determining the size of your garden you should consider the size of your family and the amount of vegetables to be canned, frozen, stored, sold or given away, as well as those used fresh.

"Gardening is fun, it provides exercise and recreation, but it is also hard work," says Dr. Burnham. "A small, well cared for garden will give you more vegetables than a large neglected garden. Be honest with yourself concerning your interest, energy and available time when determining the size of your garden."

Coach Barry Jones of St. Stanislaus, who has assumed the task of organizing and managing the Pascagoula River Conference track and field meet this week, expressed concern the other day that fans may be the biggest problem at the meet. He makes several good points about how the fans could adversely affect the players' performances and even endanger themselves at the meet.

The fans have been shouting and cheering at the start of the races, and this he contends is a disadvantage to the athletes. After all, the runners have to concentrate on the starting gun, and if someone shouts out their name, it's naturally going to distract the runner. It's all right to cheer the runners after the race has begun, but not before the gun.

At some of the recent meets held at the Stanislaus stadium, children have been racing each other on the hurdles and have been trying to jump the high jump bar, and Jones sees this as a danger to the children. Then, of course, the problem arises what if the child wanders into the shot put area during competition? Could have some tragic consequences.

Actually, there is no real reason why anyone would want to get on the field. The stands at Stanislaus are only five to ten feet from the track, and, according to Coach Jones, all the finishes will be right in front of the homeside stands.

Joseph (Doc) Rhodes left Wednesday from Bay St. Louis to represent the United States in the Pan-American games in San Juan, Puerto Rico. He'll be the only powerlifter in his weight class (148-pounds) who does not have an alternate.

Doc was a unanimous choice by the national AAU selection committee, the only powerlifter to receive that distinction.

In his most recent effort, Doc totalled 1,415 pounds which is just ten pounds off the world record, and the way he has progressed in the last six months, no one is betting he won't set a new world mark in Puerto Rico.

The sad thing is that Doc will have to foot half the expenses for the trip. The AAU cannot afford to finance the venture, even though they are sponsoring the venture, and Doc had to look out, several official bodies looked the other way. At least the Hancock County Board of Supervisors donated $300 to the cause, and that makes up half the cost. But the state legislature and the Bay St. Louis city council seemed unwilling to make up the difference. The state legislature said that it couldn't donate to an individual, and the Bay St. Louis city council could only see giving $15, and as of Wednesday Doc still hadn't received that.

You know, Doc really has attracted attention to Bay St. Louis since he was a two-time AAU athlete of the year (and some say he has a good shot at doing it again this year). $15, sad thing.

Well, now that everyone else has made their baseball picks, I'll tell you how it will really turn out. We're in for another California World Series with the Dodgers stopping Oakland this time. As for the Breakdown: NL West - Los Angeles, Cincinnati, Atlanta, Houston, San Diego, San Francisco.

NL East - Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Philadelphia, New York, Montreal, Chicago.

AL West - Oakland, Texas, Kansas City, Chicago, Minnesota, California.

AL East - New York, Baltimore, Boston, Milwaukee, Cleveland, Detroit.

As a chess player who has followed Bobby Fischer very closely, I was not disappointed to see him lose his crown to Russian Anatoly Karpov. Fischer had always accused the Russian champions of winning the crown and then sitting on it for two years. He said he would change all that if he became champion.

Well, two years later Fischer still has not played Game One, and besides I don't think he could have beaten Karpov who is a very strong player.

By the way, Fischer is not the first American to win the chess title. Paul Morphy of New Orleans won the title (unofficially) in the late 1800's.

What do you think about Portland's falling star Bill Walton telling the people of the world to reject the American government? I wonder if he rejected all those American dollars he gets paid?

BASEBALL QUIZ: What major league player holds the record for the most runs-batted-in in one game? Answer next week.

Baseball has been accused of being staid, but lately it has shown signs of catching up with the times. In a recent Bay High-St. Stanislaus clash, baseball fans (both moderns and oldtimers) were treated to one of the latest innovations. Can anyone think of a better way to brighten up a game?

Stanislaus hosts conference meet

St. Stanislaus is hosting the Pascagoula River Conference track and field meet with finals scheduled to begin Friday evening. Nine conference schools, including St. Stanislaus, Pass High, and Hancock North Central will be represented at the event. The preliminaries were held Wednesday at Rockchaw stadium.

Coach Barry Jones of St. Stanislaus sees his team as having good chances to claim the team title in its first year in the Pascagoula River Conference, but he conceded that he will probably have to face a stiff challenge from Pass High.

Pass High's strong point is its relay team of Reginald Dedeaux, Wayne Bradley, Gerald Ellis, and Able Page, but Coach Jones thinks his cindermen have a chance to topple Pass High.

"We tied them earlier in the year at our meet," said Jones, "and I think that shows we'll be near the top."

Stanislaus' strength is in the short sprints and the middle and long distance runs. Jim Schott of St. Stanislaus will be counted on heavily to give the Rocks first-place finishes in both the mile and the 880 yard run.

Schott, a senior, was the Gulf Coast Conference champion last year in both events. He ran a 4:39 mile recently in the West Bank Relays and is considered a leading contender in the distance events.

Mike Russell, a senior at Stanislaus will be counted on for the 100-yard dash. Russell holds the school record for the 100-dash with a time of 10.0 and has twice beaten Pass High's Darel Lang.

"Our boys finished second in conference meets the last four years," said Jones, "and I think they're tired of being number two."

The other teams that will be competing at the meet will be Notre Dame, St. John, St. Martin, D'Iberville, Vancleave, and East Central.

Friday's competition will be for high school athletes and for junior high boys. The junior high girls completed their competition Wednesday.

The order of Friday's events is as follows:

6:00 - Sprint Relay (J.H. Boys), 6:05 - 440 Relay (H.S. Girls), 6:10-440 Relay (H.S. Boys), 6:15-440 Relay (J.H. Boys), 6:20-120 H.H. (H.S. Boys).

Tomcats rough up Bearcats

The Stone Tomcats touched Bearcat starting pitcher Bill Lansdale for two runs in the first and second innings and then added another three in the sixth to dump Long Beach 7-4 Saturday in Long Beach.

The Tomcats jumped out to a two run lead in the first inning when Riels belted a two-run homerun off Lansdale. Lansdale lasted through the second inning where he gave up two more earned runs.

Long Beach cut the lead to 4-2 in the fifth when Tommy McKay drilled a run-scoring double and then scored on a single by Bob Richards. But Stone put the game away in the sixth inning by scoring three runs off reliever Tim Berry. Ainsworth provided the key blow of the inning with a bases loaded single that scored two runs.

In the bottom half of the inning, the Bearcats fought back with two more runs as Bruce Cuevas drove in two runs on a single.

Lansdale was charged with his second loss against two wins. He struck out one, walked two, and allowed four earned runs in the two innings he worked. Tim Berry pitched five innings for the Bearcats, striking out three, walking three, and giving up two earned runs.

Ricky Spring chalked up the win for Stone as he fanned eight and walked five batters in the seven innings he worked.

The Bearcats record dropped to 7-2 and will host Biloxi tonight at 7 p.m.

The double elimination tournament is scheduled to last through Sunday afternoon. A refreshment stand will be available at the park for food and drinks.

Second inning rally carries Ford to win

By EDWARD FAVRE
Dan Ford won his fifth straight game as the St. Stanislaus Rocks rallied for seven runs in the second inning and then coasted to a 7-2 win over East Central last Saturday in Pascagoula River

Conference play at the Stanislaus diamond.

Twelve hitters went to the plate in the second inning as the Rocks rattled the Hornets' starting pitcher Brian Martin for seven runs on eight hits. Mike Favre, who went three-for-four in the game, led the Rock charge with two hits in the inning including a leadoff double.

After the second inning fireworks, the Rocks were unable to mount any other serious scoring threats.

Dan Ford kept the Hornets in check the rest of the way, striking out three, walking one, and giving up nine hits. His record is now 5-5. Losing pitcher Brian Martin went four innings for East Central, allowing nine hits, walking one, and fanning three. Gene Owenby relieved Martin in the fifth and gave up two hits, struck out one and walked one.

Stanislaus, with a record of 6-7, will play Vancleave Saturday at Vancleave.

Rebels sign baseball prospect

Ronnie Russell, outstanding infielder-outfielder for Christian Brothers High School in Memphis, has become Ole Miss' first baseball signee for 1976.

The announcement of the signing of Russell, a 6-1, 185-pounder, was made last week by Rebel head baseball coach Jake Gibbs.

Russell has been a three-year starter in baseball for CBHS at third base, first base and in the outfield.

A first team All-Shelby County selection last spring, he hit .405 with five home runs and was chosen Most Valuable Player on the CBHS team. Through eight games this season, he is hitting above .300 and has slammed two homers.

Russell hit .385 with eight homers for Bill Spers'

American Legion national runnerup team in the summer of 1973, and last summer for Spers he smashed 10 home runs with a .409 average. He was chosen for the Shelby County All-Star American Legion team in '74.

PRC track season nixed

POPLARVILLE -- PRC coach Harvey Seligman announced recently that Pearl River Junior College will not have a track team this spring. Only 10 perspective members turned out at the organizational meeting with a minimum of twenty needed. No long distance runners, relayers, high jumpers, or pole valuters showed an interest, Seligman said. In the past, football players were required to participate in track. This year however, the football coaches did not demand players to join. Last season all but two track members were football players.

Seligman stated that PRC would have a team next spring.

Sacred Heart sweeps Pass High

Sacred Heart won both of its A-team matches against Pass High last Wednesday in Hiller Park. Karen Dougherty defeated Mary Davids 7-5, 6-2. In girls' double play, Lyn Smith and Denise Dougherty edged the team of Connie Winstead and Susan Necaise 6-4, 6-2. Karen Sablich of Sacred Heart downed Polly Necaise in the only B-team match.

Karate . . . not just a way to fight

By DAVID PIERSON
"It's not just a way to fight but also a way to live with yourself psychologically," said Bay High's special education teacher Robert Hesson about the Korean style of karate called Tai Kwan Do.

Hesson, who is a first-degree black belt karate expert, holds night classes twice a week at St. Augustine's gym where he teaches about 40 students the art of streetfighting. Hesson is one of the instructors of the Coast Karate Klub, an organization that claims a membership of nearly 1,000 students in its ten schools.

The classes have a cross-section of the communities — businessmen, teachers, housewives, laborers, and schoolchildren. Even two local high school cheerleaders are enrolled in the karate classes which meet from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. each Tuesday and Thursday night.

Karate, a Japanese word meaning "empty hands", refers to the weapons that the karate fighter uses to defend himself. His main weapons are his hands and feet which move with lightning quickness to strike vulnerable points of a person's anatomy.

The progress of the students in the karate classes is distinguished by different belts — blue, gold, green, red, then black. A black belt karate expert must be tested each year to make sure that he still measures up to the standards.

Only the chief instructor, Vern Foster, a third-degree black belt, can grant belt classifications to the students in the ten schools that make up the Coast Karate Klub. And his recommendations are recognized by the international karate organization Moo-Duk Kwan which has its headquarters in Seoul, Korea.

Foster evaluates each student in five areas: his ability to perform the technicals, his ability to adhere to the Tai Kwan Do style, the student's attitude, his attendance, and his innate fighting ability.

Many celebrities are recognized as karate experts, among them singer Elvis Presley and drummer Buddy Rich. Hesson also said that several U. S. senators have also begun taking karate lessons following the shooting of Senator John Stennis.

Tai Kwan Do, the Korean style, differs from the Japanese styles of karate, and Hesson believes that the difference is based upon the life styles of the two countries.

"The Japanese," Hesson states "believe in form. Their gardens, their homes, their life styles all reflect this concern for form."

"But the Koreans," he adds, "are a people more used to pain. They are a hardworking people, a practical people, and their karate reflects this style of living."

A Japanese karate expert concentrates on the form of his attack, and Hesson believes this to be a static approach to streetfighting. The Koreans, however, will combine several different blows in one attack. "And this," said Hesson, "is why the Korean style is winning all the major karate tournaments right now."

Technique, however, is not all cut and dry in karate, since it seems there are many theories concerning the best approach to streetfighting.

The main point that karate teaches the fighter is how to focus his blow to do the most damage or the desired damage. With most fighters, a blow to the face may or may not stop the attacker; with a karate fighter, a blow to the face will surely be effective because it will be directed to a specific area.

"I've seen someone kick an attacker squarely in the groin and not stop him," said Hesson. "If that person had learned how to focus the blow he could have stopped the man rather than infuriate him."

Of course, Hesson says, most people are reluctant to inflict bodily harm on another because of the possible legal consequences. So karate teaches what is known as "control tactics." Control tactics may best be described as arm twisting. It presents the potential for physical harm, but does not harm the assailant in a way that will involve a law suit. A karate fighter is expert in many different control tactics that will bring the assailant to his knees very quickly.

Interestingly, while the country is suffering from recession, karate classes are presently on the upswing.

"It seems that people turn to karate in time of trouble," explained Hesson. "Karate teaches people how to deal with their problems. It's not just a way to fight but also a way to live. It helps a person channel his aggression."

Then he adds with a grin, "It also helps some people with weight problems."

"One high school student has lost 30 pounds in four months, and he claims that the only change in his routine has been karate."

The present popularity of karate also has its bad sides, as Hesson is quick to point out.

Three County horsemen win at Oak Downs

(Special to The Sea Coast Echo)

PEARL RIVER, La. — Hancock County horsemen won three of the 15 races Sunday at Oak Downs.

Edward Patton's Charlie Pride won the fifth, Doug Necaise's Go For Enuf took the sixth and Delbert Cuevas' Leo Top captured the eighth. Charlie Pride was clocked in 13.25 seconds in winning a 220-yard match over Ring Bearer (13.67) and Jolene's Alibi (no time).

Go For Enuf easily defeated CoCo Hill over a distance of 330 yards. The winner was timed in 17.93 seconds while the loser was caught in 18.13. Leo Top won by a large margin over Miss Lisa Bug by running a 19.79 for the 350-yard race.

Blue Devil Deck took top honors during the afternoon of racing by winning two matches for the second consecutive week. Owned by Howard Summers and ridden by Speedy Reeves, Blue Devil Deck beat a Hancock County horse in the 440-yard seventh.

He defeated The Fighting Kid, owned by Patton, by turning in a top A clocking of 22.91. The Fighting Kid recorded a Class A time of 23.16 in losing.

In the 15th race, Blue Devil Deck raced again and this time defeated Luke The Drifter over a distance of 400 yards. The winner was timed in 23.11 while the second horse was clocked in 23.45.

Gulfport edges Bay High, 3-2

The Bay High netters lost another close match Saturday afternoon when the Gulfport Commodores defeated the Tigers 3-2 in Gulfport.

Bay High's women netters won their matches, but losses in the mixed doubles and both boys' matches spelled the Tigers' downfall.

The Bay High girls' doubles team of Sharon Kidd and Chris Stieffell, which was a finalist in the Coast tennis tournament the week before, cowed the Gulfport team of Doris Ann Lang and Cindy Groving in straight sets 6-3, 6-3. And Noella Williams raced past Teresa Joyce of Gulfport 6-3, 6-4.

In the mixed doubles match, Kim Compton and Jane Ann Sawyer proved too much for Bay High's team of Donna and Warren Sick 7-5, 6-2. In boys' doubles David Marks and Steve Bergeron dumped Keith Folse and Charles Damien 6-4, 6-1. Finally Doug DeGroot of Gulfport defeated Bay High's Roderick Singleton in straight sets 6-2, 6-2.

Episcopal splits with Notre Dame

Notre Dame and Coast Episcopal split two A-team matches Tuesday afternoon, and the Rebels of Notre Dame claimed both B-team matches.

In A-team play, Episcopal's Perry and Paul Clinkscales swept past Greg Mangin and Jay Pott 6-1, 6-0. And in singles play, Mark Larson of Notre Dame dumped Jamie Hans 6-2, 6-0.

In B-team play, the doubles team of Theron Furr and Edgar Santa Cruz lost a marathon three-set, 37 game match 7-5, 5-7, 7-6 to Gordon Lyons and Ernie Guyton. In the singles match, Frank Lickliter beat Don Coffey in straight sets 6-3, 6-0.

Episcopal, with a season record of 6-1, travels to Pascagoula today for a 2:30 p.m. match. Then Tuesday the Episcopal netters will face Bay High.

You can always pick up a nice fishing conversation when you talk about catching black fish to Norvin Penrose. He and his dad used to put pine trees off the Waveland beach and catch plenty black fish in the shade of the young trees. What has become of black fish? Never heard of anyone catching them. Black fish were large and delicious eating. Things do change.

Coming up on May 3rd and 4th will be the Sideline Fair at St. Stanislaus. Try to attend it. There is fun for everyone. Win prizes and help a good cause.

Things like this happen. Dan Haggerty and son Pat stayed with me Sunday night to make a fishing trip Monday. Rained all day Sunday and Monday. Better luck next time, fellows.

Rick and Maureen Hines, recently married, both love to fish. Get their share of fish, too.

Another young couple who like fishing are Charley and Beverly Cerise. They are fishing partners of Pat Haggerty. They are ready to go on every occasion.

Judge Alvin Olser, criminal Court Judge, is an ardent fisherman. Does mostly salt water fishing. He will participate in the Venice Fishing Rodeo the end of May. The Judge gets his share of the finny tribe.

Al Mercier had a successful cataract operation performed. Al has laid off of fishing for awhile but expects to start again soon. Is he happy?

When fly fishing always use an eyelet in the end of the fly line. Takes the place of a knot which causes plenty trouble when retrieving the line.
